INSURANCE MEN GATHER HERE FOR TWO DAY SESSION

Rogers Tells How To Know Senate Is Nearing Close

(Special To The News)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 28.—You can always tell when the senate is getting near a close. The Boulder Dam bill will come up.

Some day somebody with the interest of that bill at heart will bring it up the first day of congress and then, if some Arizona senator can talk from then to the close, why, it will be a record and not just a repetition.

They knew Coolidge would veto the farm bill. Well, if they had had the farmers' interest at heart and wanted to see him receive some help this summer, why didn't they have some kind of a compromise bill ready that he would sign?

No, sir, there was more politics than relief in that bill.

Yours,

WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

There will be no issue of The News on Wednesday, Memorial Day.

Pa Newc noted an unusual tourist party in this city this morning. The auto which was from Iowa, was loaded down with camping apparatus and attached to the radiator and fenders were large sized ears of corn.

The balloon races in Pittsburgh on Wednesday do not start until late in the afternoon so that if the balloons by chance come this way it will be late in the day.

Pa Newc is glad to extend a welcome to the host of insurance men assembled here today for the state convention. Whatever facilities that New Castle affords to make the convention a notable one, Pa Newc and the citizens of New Castle are glad to extend to the visitors with the hope that their stay will be a most profitable and enjoyable one.

Indications are that the suggestion that bells be tolled here for five minutes at noon, 12 o'clock Memorial Day will be followed out in a large number of instances here. It is the program that all fire bells, school bells, church bells, etc., will be tolled for the five minute period as an appropriate way to mark the day.

Dogs are tempermental just as are great artists. And the better the dog the more temperment or is it temper? he displays. At the dog show a Peke was being judged, conceded by those in the know to be perhaps the prize winner in its class. In the ring it was dragged much against its will. Finally because it snapped at the judge it was disqualified.

Local stamp collectors have come back from the Cleveland exhibit all tales of the wonders that they have seen. And some of them even have been so lucky as to get one of the new Valley Forge stamps cancelled at the exhibition on the day of issue. Which makes a nice addition to their albums, they say.

Civic Music week in New Castle closes Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock. It is not too late yet to join the association. If you procrastinate and let it drag over until Wednesday you will be too late.

The Castleton again is crowded to capacity. Roy J. Garletts, room clerk says that he believes that cots will have to be put in the ball room of the hotel if more delegates to the insurance convention are to be quartered there.

State Insurance Men In Session In New Castle

Delegates Here From All Parts Of State For Two-Day Gathering

LOVE WELCOMES VISITORS TO CITY

W. S. Diggs Of Pittsburgh, State President, In Charge Of Day's Sessions

Months of preparation came to fruition this morning in the Scottish Rite cathedral when "Pennsylvania Insurance Days", the annual convention of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania, got under way at 9:30 o'clock. While the crowd in attendance as the gavel fell was not large, it increased gradually and at noon the registration of delegates was over 300. This will be further increased this afternoon and this evening.

Joseph C. Williams of New Castle, a past president of the federation and the general chairman of the present convention, opened the convention and in a brief address bade the delegates welcome. He took but little time and as he finished, Sam Lewis, convention song leader, led the crowd in singing America, with Mrs. Elizabeth Martin Fleming at the piano.

Invocation by Rev. C. J. Williamson.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church of this city, and following the invocation, Chairman Williams turned the convention over to the president of the federation, William S. Diggs of Pittsburgh. After acknowledging his introduction, Mr. Diggs introduced James K. Love, advertising manager of the Shenango Pottery, who delivered the formal address of welcome to the delegates.

"We are proud to welcome the insurance men and women of the state to New Castle," said Mr. Love. "It is an honor of which we are not insensible, and if when the convention is over, you have enjoyed your stay here, the work attendant to the preparing for this gathering will have been amply repaid.

"New Castle is an industrial city, of varied industries, and had you but the time, not a plant but would be delighted to have you inspect it. Lack of time will prevent that, however, but arrangements have been made to

Bandit Search Still In Progress

Manhunt In Colorado And Kansas Centers Along State Line

FATE OF TELLER IS STILL UNKNOWN

(International News Service)

LAMAR, Colo., May 28.—Search for the four bandits who robbed the First National bank of this city leaving a trail of murder in their wake, centered today along the Southern Kansas-Colorado state line, leaders of the posse expressed fears however that the quartet of desperadoes had eluded their net.

The causualty list to date stands at three known dead, two wounded and one missing. A. N. Parrish, president of the looted bank and his son, John Parrish, cashier, were killed outright during the holdup, Dr. W .W. Wineinger of Dighton, Kans., was slain presumably by the bandits after being lured from his home to attend one of the wounded desperadoes.

Teller's Fate Unknown.

The fate of E. A. Kessinger bank teller, who was abducted by the bandits is still unknown. It is believed he has either been killed or is being held as a "pawn" through whom the bandits hope to negotiate for their lives and assurance of a fair trial if they are cornered by the posse.

Reports from Hill City, Kans., state that two men from that place were shot and seriously wounded when a sheriff's posse mistook them for the bandits. This incident reflects the hair-trigger tension throughout the district. Undoubtedly the bandits when found will be shot on sight.

The greatest manhunt in the history of the west has gathered momentum each hour since the daring bank robbers of last Wednesday. Virtually every male resident within a hundred miles of the Kansas-Colorado line has taken up arms and joined one of a dozen army-like posses scouring the district.

Mother Is Driving Car Figuring In Fatal Accident This Morning

Passes Truck; Car Overturns As She Drives Back Onto Concrete Road

Margaret Katherine Cunningham, aged four, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cunningham, of near the Harmony Baptist church, on the Ellwood City-New Castle improved highway, was almost instantly killed shortly after 10 o'clock this morning when the car in which she, her mother, Mrs. Helen Cunningham; her brother, Earl Francis Cunningham, aged eight, and Mrs. Frank Hawks of Ellwood City, were en route to Ellwood City, upset, as Mrs. Cunningham was endeavoring to get up on the concrete road after being forced off in passing a large truck.

The accident occurred but a short distance from the Cunningham home, and near the William Wellhausen home on that road. The child died a few minutes after being carried into the Wellhausen home. Others in the car were also injured. Coroner J. P. Caldwell is conducting an investigation of the accident.

Mrs. Cunningham, her two children and Mrs. Hawks started in the Cunnihgham car for Ellwood City, this morning, the car being a large type Studebaker. Mrs. Cunningham and son, Earl, were in the front seat and Mrs. Hawks and little Margaret Katherine Cunningham in the rear seat.

Truck Causes Accident.

They were proceeding toward Ellwood City and had reached the top of a hill near the William Wellhausen home when Mrs. Cunningham noticed a large truck ahead of her machine, driving in the center of the road.

Mrs. Cunningham started to blow her horn at the top of the hill and continued to do so several times as they proceeded down the hill, expecting that the truck would pull to one side and allow her to pass. The truck did not do this and continued in the center of the road, forcing Mrs. Cunningham to drive out on the dirt at the side of the road in order to pass the truck.

Mrs. Cunningham had passed the truck and was endeavoring to get her machine back up on the concrete, when her car upset, throwing out all the occupants of the Cunningham car. The concrete was wet.

The little girl suffered a fractured skull and her chest was terribly crushed when the machine fell over on her.

The little victim was picked up by

Alex Silverman Passes Away

Illness Proves Fatal To Hotel Man; Funeral This Afternoon

DEATH OCCASIONS WIDESPREAD GRIEF

There were many sad eyes among the newsboys of New Castle and other nearby cities today when word was received of the death of Alex Silverman, who with Saul Leff, operated a chain of hotels in New Castle, Sharon, Meadville, Greenville, Butler, Zanesville and other cities. He died Sunday from pleurisy following a 10 days illness at Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh. His body was laid to rest this afternoon.

Mr. Silverman, during his early days, was a newsboy and like thousands of others "hustled papers." During those days and also when he journeyed to school the "newsies" were his "pals" and later on when he abandoned newspaper life to go into business on a larger scale, he

Probe Mystery In Girl's Death At Youngstown

Body Of Ten-Year-Old Girl, Missing Two Weeks, Found Near Salem

BELIEVE GIRL DEAD FOR OVER 70 HOURS

Police Declare No Marks Of Violence Or Brutality Are Found

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 28.—While police today questioned the father and two brothers of 10-year-old Beatrice Rosenbaum, whose body was found yesterday near Salem, 15 miles from here, after a search lasting more than two weeks, efforts were still being made to find clues that might solve the mystery surrounding the girl's disappearance.

The child's body was found in a ravine on the Schilling farm near Salem by Robert Lippiatt, 15, and his brother, 13. Although the body was scratched and torn, police said that an examination failed to reveal any marks of violence or brutality.

Police were notified immediately of the discovery of the body. As soon as they had examined the body they notified Mrs. Rosenbaum, mother of the girl, who with her three daughters went to Salem and identified it.

Post mortem examination indicated that the child had been dead about 70 hours. Police Chief James J. McNichols is of the opinion that the girl had been taken away and held until her death.

PLAN TO TOLL BELLS AT NOON

Numerous responses have been made to the suggestion in The News Saturday that bells be tolled for five minutes at noon, Wednesday, in observance of Memorial Day.

Interest has also been shown outside of New Castle, and the bells on many of the country churches will also be tolled at the noon hour for five minutes it is indicated.

The plan is to start tolling the bells at 12 o'clock Memorial Day, and to toll them for a five minute period.

WATER SERVICE ON NESHANNOCK

Impressive Ceremonies Are Carried Out Honoring Heroes

Sunday evening, hundreds of people paused from their usual duties for a time and assisted in inaugurating the observance of the Memorial Day season in this district, while thousand of others were at least reminded of what this time of year is consecrated to.

All the participating service and patriotic organizations affiliated in the Memorial Day observance were well represented at both the water service on the banks of the Neshannock creek and at Epworth M. E. church, where the concluding services of Memorial Sunday were held.

Dawes Defeats Congress Plan Of Adjournment

Vote Of Vice President Blocks Plan To Adjourn On Tuesday Afternoon

SENATORS STUNNED BY TURN TAKEN

Surprise Is Occasioned Because Of Previous Vote During Morning

(Bulletin)

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Under dramatic circumstances Vice President Dawes today defeated the administration's resolution to adjourn Congress at five o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Although the House adopted the resolution by a big majority, the Senate Voted 40 to 40 on the question of going home tomorrow. This gave the vice president an opportunity to vote.

"The vote is 40 ayes and 40 noes," said Dawes. "The result being a tie, the chair casts his vote and the chair votes no."

His vote thus defeated the resolution.

Wild Applause

There was a wild outburst of applause in the galleries, while administration leaders sat stunned in their seats. The surprise was all the greater because the Senate previously had rejected two amendments to keep Congress in session, first, until June 5, and then until June 2.

The action of the Senate with Dawes' aid, left administration leaders in a quandary. The Senate first refused to remain in session until next Tuesday by a vote of 39 to 41.

Fate Of Dirigible And Brave Crew Are Uncertainty

Rescuers Are Baffled, Not Knowing Where To Center Efforts

TRYING TO TRACE DISTRESS CALLS

San Francisco Radio Stations Believe Call Relayed From Siberia

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 28.—The frozen Arctic today held the secret of the disappearance of the dirigible Italia.

The fate of General Umberto Nobile, famous commander of the giant airship, and his intrepid crew, may never be known. Theories regarding the ship's sudden silence are many, but facts upon which to base them are absent.

Rescuers Are Balked

Willing resources are many, but they are at a loss as to how to proceed to the aid of the lost airship. With not a single definite clue, the hardy northerners who are planning the rescue expeditions find themselves faced by thousands of miles of trackless wastes which must be scoured in the darkest possible time.

The dirigible's mother ship, the Citta Di Milano, which left King's Bay, Spitzbergen, yesterday morning to search for the Italia, is icebound off Dane Island, according to a Central News dispatch from King's Bay.

The crew of the Citta Di Milan established communications with several sealers at Magdalena Bay and informed them that the Italia was lost. The sealers replied that the only possible way of pushing farther north in the search would be to use dog teams, the dispatch said.

An earlier dispatch received from Copenhagen by the Exchange Telegraph Company stated that the Citta Di Milano was held fast in the ice at Amsterdam Island. This dispatch added that two Norwegian huntsmen were going to Vidge Bay to ask another huntsman named Nois, who is

Civic Music Association Campaign Ends On Tuesday Night

GOOD PROGRESS IS BEING MADE

Workers Are Enthused For Final Effort On Tuesday

Added impetus was given to the New Castle Civic Music Association membership campaign through announcements made by ministers from the pulpits of the various churches Sunday and in the fine reports turned in this noon at the luncheon meeting of workers for the association which took place at noon today in the main dining room of The Castleton.

"While reports show that several hundred members have already enrolled, there is an urgent need for every public spirited citizen in New Castle and this community, who realizes the value of good music in the development of young people in high ideals and community spirit, at least to prove his loyalty by becoming a member of this outstanding civic music association," is the statement of William S. Wright, organizer, from the Civic Concert Service of Chicago, who is sponsoring the movement in New Castle.

"The sum is small," Mr. Wright continues, "being $5.00 for adults and $3.50 for students, and at least three concerts are guaranteed. The good that will be accomplished is beyond computing.

"For those who have not grasped the bigness of this civic music plan or familiarized themselves with the workings of the Civic Music Association, may it be said that the three concerts which are guaranteed are chosen by a talent committee chosen from the foremost musical people of the local association. These artists are not circuited nor does the national organization dictate what artists or concert organizations must be taken, as there are over 700 accredited ones from which to choose.

"The local association is not put to any expense for any assistance offered by the national body during campaign week, as they receive their compensation from the artists on a percentage basis. All money raised by memberships goes into the buying of concerts for the members, less the rental of the auditorium and small local expenses.

"Today's issue of The News contains two full pages of telegrams and letters received by Herbert Peairs, president of the organization, prior to the campaign, and also an explanation of the civic music plan."

Headquarters at 114 North Mercer street will be open until 5:30 this afternoon and until 10 o'clock Tuesday evening, when the campaign closes. No one who is not a member can buy his way into these concerts as no single admissions are sold.

Special telephones 5808 and 5809 are installed for those who cannot come to headquarters so that they can make reservations.

W. S. Wright will speak before the members of the New Wilmington Rotary club this evening.

Cole Will Attend State Meeting

James W. Cole, secretary of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, will attend the mid year meeting of the Pennsylvania Commercial Secretaries association, which will be held at McKeesport, June 8.

A discussion of the best ways to develop airports in the various communities will be a feature of the session.

FIVE SURVIVORS OF UNION ARMY ATTEND SERVICE

E. church. The service was carried out in accordance with the regular ritualistic services of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

It opened with the hymn "Nearer My God To Thee" in which all participated. This was followed by prayer by Rev. Samuel Maitland, then a selection by the Croton M. E. quartet. Rev. Samuel Maitland, the speaker of the service, then spoke in regard to the object of this yearly service and in memory of the brave men of all wars of this country who gave up their lives in defense of their country, and at sea, in order that the country might be preserved and that we of today might carry on what they inaugurated and so well preserved by their supreme sacrifice in years gone by.

The address of Rev. Samuel Maitland was followed by a ritualistic service carried out by the chaplain of the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the assembled members, during which the flag of the Ladies of the G. A. R. was waved over the water of the creek. There was then another selection by the quartet after which the flowers of the members of the Ladies of the G. A. R. were strewn on the waters of the creek. The singing of America followed, after which a squad of eight members of the military company of Oscar L. Jackson camp, in charge of Sergeant Charles Schetrom, fired three excellent volleys over the flower strewn waters. This was followed by taps sounded close at hand by Stewart Mardis and in the distance with echo by Fred Warner.

Go To Church.

This completed the service at the water front. Parade formation headed by the military company of the Sons of Union Veterans and followed by units of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Sons of Union Veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies of the G. A. R. and other ladies' organizations was then effected by Marshal Pat J. Dempsey with massed colors in the front and proceeded up East Washington street to Pearson street to the Epworth M. E. church. The Civil war veterans were transported to the church in automobiles.

At the entrance, the military company of the Sons of Union Veterans and the standard bearers of the massed colors stood at attention as the veterans of the Spanish-American war and the veterans of the World war entered the church. The veterans and various affiliated organizations filled the entire center of the church, which had been reserved for them. The colors of the several organizations were massed at the front of the church.

Five Civil War Veterans Present.

The five veterans of the Civil war present at the church were D. R. Kerr, C. B. Hamilton, Wesley Davis, Philip Wagner and Leonard Reed. They were accorded special honors.

The program carried out was excellent. The music was furnished by a choir of 30 voices directed by Prof. Wilbur Short and with Mrs. Anna Moore Pyle at the pipeorgan. Mrs. F. L. Bloomquist rendered a special solo, while a special quartet number was rendered by Mrs. Leon Drumm, Mrs. F. L. Bloomquist, Chester P. Reynolds and Fred Smith.

The church auditorium was filled to capacity and the service was carried out in a pleasing and interesting manner.

The address of Rev. S. L. Maxwell, D. D., pastor of the church, a chaplain in the service of the United States army and on the transport service during the World war, was effective and to the point, conveying to the listeners the fact that while we should ever honor the memory of those who died to advance the interests of this country, that it was also wise to prepare in every way possible to eliminate war.

Among other things, Rev. Maxwell said that he was neither in sympathy with the extreme pacifist, or the extremist who is urging preparedness for future wars, but urged that in honoring those who have from time to time made the supreme sacrifices that made it possible for this country to continue on, that a noble work is being done.

He urged that we must combat that tendency, which is trying to instill into the minds of the younger generations, that war is ever inevitable. Such a tendency he contended is an extreme heresy.

Great issues of the past wars are now settled, he declared, and the effort should be made now to bring about a condition of mind that would eliminate most of the causes of any future war.

At the close of the service, the veterans of the Civil war, Spanish-American war and World war and affiliated organizations left the auditorium while the balance of the audience stood and paid silent tribute.

ALEX SILVERMAN PASSES AWAY

did not forget the newsboys, or others amongst whom he could scatter a few seeds of kindness to make their lives happier.

Each year Mr. Silverman with his partner, Saul Leff, provided a sumptuous banquet for the Newsboys followed by a show on New Year's day, at which the thousands of newsboys in the various cities received gifts, a cheerful word and good advice to help them travel the future. For several years past he attended the New Castle dinner and was well known to all of the boys whom he was always ready to help.

His efforts to make someone's path easier were not confined to newsboys. His deeds were silent and today not only here but in other cities there are kindly thoughts and messages of sympathy for his widow and two young children. He was interested in the movements of the various cities in which he was in business and had a wide and favorably acquaintanceship among the traveling public.

Mr. Silverman was about 38 years old, one of the leading hotel men of Western Pennsylvania and was a member of the firm of Leff & Silverman which operated the Leslie here and hotels in nearby cities.

He is survived by his wife, Jennie Raffel Silverman, and two children, Frances and Morris.

Funeral services took place today at one o'clock from his residence, 910 Locust street, Pittsburgh. Burial was made in Washington cemetery at McKees Rocks.

reported in half a dozen cities driving a delapidated roadster and accompanied by a child was sought today by authorities of Columbiana and Mahoning counties following the discovery yesterday afternoon, near Salem, O., of the body of Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, missing from her Youngstown home for two weeks.

The body was found in a ravine thicket by Melvin and Robert Lippiatt, 13 and 15 respectively, sons of J. R. Lippiatt a farmer, as they were going after cows.

The elder Lippiatt told police he saw a car stop near a wooded ravine Friday night. The automobile he said contained two persons but he did not know whether one was a child.

Death by exposure was the official verdict given last night by Coroner M. E. Hayes of Mahoning county after an autopsy at a local morgue. The child's body was brought here from Salem last evening. Beatrice had been without food for days and her feet were swollen and cracked as if they had been exposed to water ,Hayes declared.

There was no evidence of the girl being attacked Hayes added. He said there were no bruises or scars on the child's body to indicate foul play.

The girl was reported last seen two weeks ago when she entered an automobile occupied by a "middle aged man."

Then the Senate declined to remain here until next Saturday by a vote of 38 to 42.

Finally, it refused to adjourn tomorrow.

The action was a victory for supporters of Boulder dam legislation who, under the leadership of Senator Johnson, R., of California, have demanded that the senate remain in session until a vote is granted on the Swing-Johnson bill.

On the final roll call, all party lines were destroyed. There were twenty Republicans and twenty Democrats voting to adjourn tomorrow while nineteen Republicans, Twenty Democrats and a Farmer-Laborite voted against it. Among those who voted for adjournment was Reed of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Frank Hawks sustained a bad bruise over the left eye, and side of the face and also sustained injuries of the hip. Earl Cunningham, aged 8, sustained severe bruises about the hip and back. Mrs. Cunningham escaped severe injuries of any kind.

The truck is said to have had the name "Waters" on the side of it and an effort is now being made to determine its ownership. It was stopped when the accident occurred. Coroner Caldwell expects to hold an inquest to determine the responsibility for the death of the little girl.

Is It Necessary
—to change lenses every six months?

A patient recently moved to New Castle came here for her regular "semi-yearly" change of lenses, as ordered by a western "specialist".
A thoro examination showed the lenses she was wearing were fitted properly to the power of her eyes—and she did not NEED a change!
Don't be led to believe that glasses should be changed at fixed intervals. A change MAY be needed within 6 months or within two years. In "cases" a change is often needed three months from the previous fitting—for a time.
Know WHEN your eyes need a change of lenses—and change the lenses then. Come tomorrow for an optical examination.

We repair broken frames and mountings.
We fit glasses for relief of eye-strain headaches.
We give children SPECIAL attention in fitting glasses.

Free Of Health Troubles Since He Got Konjola

Neuritis Pains Banished; Also Relieved Severe Stomach Suffering.

MR. JOHN G. ZOOK
Seavy Photo

Nearly all modern people are susceptible to the common ailments. This is because we do not take care of our bodies. Seventy percent of all diseases are caused by the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels becoming clogged and sluggish, sending poisons through the body, and leaving it prey to ailments of every nature. To spare oneself the discomfort, disability and final dissolution due to a rundown and disordered inner-system, the ailments that lead up to them must be taken care of. Therefore, this new medicine, Konjola, has been prepared. It is composed of Nature's own remedies, which never fail to liven up those important functionary organs. Thousands who have taken this medicine tell of it's wonderful effects on their health.

One of the latest indorsements came from Mr. John G. Zook, R. R. No. 4, New Castle, who interviewed the Konjola Man at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this week, and gave him the following report, and gave him the following report:

"I am recommending Konjola every chance I get, because I know what this medicine will do. It ended my stomach trouble and neuritis so that I feel better than for years," said Mr. Zook.

"My suffering was so bad that for many days I was unable to work. The neuritis pains were just like hot daggers sticking in me. Most of the pains settled in my shoulders and made it almost impossible for me to raise my hands over my head. There were times when the base of my skull pained so much that I thought I couldn't stand it any longer. Then to add to my suffering I would have to stand awful indigestion pains after every meal. Gas would form and press against my heart, making it palpitate so that I thought it would stop beating. Even my liver and kidneys were disordered. You can see, that my health was in a terrible state.

"One day while I was near the headquarters of the Konjola Man I stopped in to see him. He explained this new medicine to me and when I heard that it worked as Nature intends I made up my mind to give it a fair trial. I began taking Konjola as directed and within a surprising short time I could notice a change in my entire system. First of all Konjola gave my inner-system a thorough cleansing and regulated all the organs. The neuritis pains began easing up and as I continued with the treatment they completely disappeared. Now it is a fact that I have not a single ache or pain in any part of my body. My bowels are acting free and regular so that the headaches are things of the past. My stomach never gives me any trouble and I can eat anything whatever I want without suffering afterward. In fact my entire health is so much better I hardly realize I am the same person. I will always recommend and indorse Konjola to others who are suffering as I once did."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

WE HAVE WITH US——

NEW CASTLE is honored today by the presence of the leaders of the insurance field in the State of Pennsylvania. From every corner of the state they have come to New Castle for their annual convention, and this city extends them a warm welcome.

And city, no matter its size, can be proud of such a gathering. Insurance has long since been lifted from the ruck of haphazard vocations to the dignity of a profession requiring a multitude of abilities.

In the insurance field today are found some of the keenest thinkers, the ablest executives, and the most versatile salesmen to be found in any line.

That they have selected New Castle as their convention site for this year is a compliment.

Every citizen of New Castle welcomes this unusual gathering, and the hope paramount in the minds of the citizenry is that at the close of the convention, the insurance men will feel that their 1928 convention, of "Pennsylvania Insurance Days" was brought to the right place, New Castle, the Convention City of Western Pennsylvania.

Welcome!

DISSATISFACTION ALWAYS

THREE government commissions have recently been subjected to violent criticism, including the charge that they are so constituted as to nullity the purposes for which they were established. Judged by the statements of these critics, the Tariff Commission, Federal Trade Commission and Interstate Commerce Commission are now composed of men whose deliberate aim and purpose it is to set at naught the theories and acts under which they were created.

There is always a tendency on the part of the minority to insist that the actions of the majority are all designed to bring the world to an untimely and terrible end. It is, perhaps, a privilege that should in some instances be allowed those who find themselves at variance with the views of the majority, but when the harping is directed at established branches of the government it is well to consider the facts in the case before believing the charges.

It would not be natural for disappointed litigants to express pleasure, but no one has ever suggested that the courts should be abolished because their verdicts do not favor both plaintiffs and defendants. Often there are reasons why federal commissions should do one thing, but still better reasons why they should do the other thing. When that happens those who can see only one side of a question demand abolition of the commission or the appointment of new commissioners who think as they do.

Before these commissions were created there was a cry of injustice. They were created to stifle that cry. With what success? No matter which way the decision falls there will be dissatisfaction in some quarter.

WE'LL KEEP ON WONDERING

WHY is it that women are so neat and men so sloppy? Barring only that bisection of the female clan which insists on wearing a boudoir cap to the grocery store, women never appear outside their own doors in one half of the sloughy, shiftless, good-for-nothing array that a lot of good citizens of the other sex are continually seen in. Why is it?

Perhaps there is no particular virtue in being slicked up all the time, and certainly there is nothing so offensive to the hearty person of masculine gender as the well-oiled young man whose handkerchief protrudes from his coat sleeve, whose vest buttons look as if they had been massaged and manicured an hour before, and who can wear patent leather shoes six months without getting a lot of nicks in them.

But just take the average pillar of the community. Think about his collar for a minute. If he wears one of the torturous stiff white ones, it will be smeared or else wilted before noon. The soft collars fare little better, and the fellow who wears blue shirt, with collar attached, just looks as if he is on the way to the stable, no matter what part of town you meet him in.

This is all said in a spirit of humility. We realize that one man is at bottom as bad as another, and if one looks a little more perk than his neighbor, it is his wife who really deserves the credit. It is nothing that can be reformed, we suppose, and perhaps the women glory in their superiority, and wouldn't have the menfolk all spick and span even if they coud.

But a person can't help wondering sometimes—why is it that a woman looks so neat, and her husband so doggone sloppy?

A lot of joy-spreaders, alas, are of the type who brighten the corner where they aren't.

Many a man would feel embarrassed to meet his grocer when driving away from the filling station.

A TALE FOR PESSIMISTS.

Here is French alegory that points a moral worth remembering:—A portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine. His first small bottle finished he was about to order another when his eyes fell on a headline in the Figaro "Hard Times Are Coming" so instead of ordering his second bottle he called for his check.

"Is there anything wrong with the wine?" asked the landlord. "The wine is good but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize" explained the artist. "Hard times" said the landlord. "Then my wife must not order the silk dress we planned but must take one of cotton." "Hard times," repeated the dressmaker when the order was canceled. "This is no time to expend. I must not make the improvement I had planned in this place." "Hard times, eh?" said the builder, when the dressmaker cancelled the building plans. "Then I cannot have my wife's portrait painted." So he wrote the artist and cancelled his order.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him. On a nearby chair was the paper in which he had read of hard times two days before. He picked it up and read more closely and found that it was two years old.—Herbert N. Casson in Marketing.

Court reports supply texts for birth control advocates.

Mrs. Edith Cromwell told the judge her husband insisted on having more children in spite of her delicate health.

This husband and wife live in a two-room basement, with hardly enough to eat. Mrs. Cromwell has had 13 children and buried six of them.

Mr. Cromwell said it was a man's duty to have as many children as he could, and admitted he was proud of himself and wanted to be prouder.

The judge told the proud father that he was a moron, with the brain of a child 10 years old, and would have sent him to jail had not Mrs. Cromwell forgiven him and taken him home. There are many similar morons.

Our high-spirited congress was outraged when President Coolidge vetoed five bills, and four of the bills were repassed over his veto, an unusual outburst, so near to a national election.

You will notice that the bill that was NOT repassed over the Coolidge veto was the McNary-Haugen bill, supposed to relieve farmers.

Many of our legislators voted for that bill to make friends at home, and voted for it only because they were sure the president would veto it. Many of them also would have vetoed it had they been president and equipped with the necessary amount of courage.

Any Republican candidate openly favoring the McNary-Haugen bill in the past or future will be looked upon as the president's political enemy, and that will make it hard for him to be the Republican 1928 nominee, and impossible to get the president's blessing, as such.

Ten plants in two coal regions will be shut down, and the men at work will be able to work full time. It is hoped to end over-production, wage-cutting and price-cutting.

THE WILD FLOWERS

Men cover the earth with brick and stone
But the violets steal away
To the shady places but little known
To be found by some one who walks alone
In the calm of a summer day.

And the ferns move out to some distant spot
Where the earth is cool and sweet
With trees and song birds they cast their lot,
Let men build cities, they like them not,
Nor the ceaseless tramp of feet.

The wild flowers sneer at man's buildings great
And flee from the city's hum.
Away from turmoil and pride and hate
They live and bud and blossom, and wait
For the few friends who may come.

YOUTH AND TRAGEDY

Strangely enough, tragedy and youth seem to run together, while old age is characterized by calmness and comedy.

The older a man gets the more he cares to see plays and read novels with happy endings.

It is the young that want the whole dramatis personate butchered in the third act.

It is interesting to note that children like bloody stories. Fee, Fow, Fie, Fum varns interest them most. They are delighted when the old witch bites off somebody's head or when the hero butchers 200 or 300 of his antagonists.

The same thing is observable in the literature of early peoples.

I have just been reading the Antigone of Sophocles. Some blood!

One gentleman slays his father, another marries his mother by mistake and when he finds out his slip, puts his own eyes out. Two brothers kill each other on the battlefield and a lady is put into a dungeon to rot. It was not as a punishment for their various crimes, but simply because the gods didn't like them.

There is no such thing as marrying and living happily ever after in early folk lore.

Reading the ancient ballads is a pretty lugubrious operation. Lord Lovell returns from his travels to find his lady love in her coffin and he enjoys the luxury of dying beside her. Other gentlemen are hewn, drowned, bewitched and butchered.

Young poets run to tragedy. You will find them using continually the words never and always. Things are final with them. Fate is heartless. It is a bitter world all round. Women and children suffer, the hospitals are full rainy days predominate and what's the use generally!

As a man gets older he finds most sad things never happen. We get through somehow and one who has escaped the buffetings of an outrageous fortune for 60 years is rather inclined to look leniently upon life.

It is generally supposed that youth is the unfailing source of optimism, while old people are pessimists, but the facts hardly bear out this assertion. Most kindly spirits whom I know are past fifty.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GOOD CUSTOMERS

There are a very large number of citizens who do not realize the magnitude of International Trade. When the press talks about Latin America many think only of "Spiggotee" Revolutions, or of a Richard Harding Davis story. They do not think, for instance, of Argentina as a very potential customer of Industrial North America or as a competitor in the meat and grain markets of the World. Well, that South American Republic is up and doing.

The Argentine agricultural and livestocks products imported by Great Britain during 1927 amounted to in round figures $375,000,000, or an increase of $45,000,000, 13 per cent, over 1926, while imports from all other countries decreased one and one-half per cent during the same period, according to the Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs, as reported by Consul Dana C. Sycks, Buenos Aires, made public by the United States Department of Commerce.

With respect to the volume of trade with the United Kingdom, Argentina took second place during the year, and third place as to the volume of exports from Great Britain. During last year the United Kingdom took this $375,000,000 worth of imports from Argentina, as compared with about an even worth from the United States. France, Germany, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Sweden, Egypt and Russia followed Argentina in the order named.

In 1927 Argentina took $125,000,000 worth of goods from the United Kingdom, as against $240,000,000 worth by the United States and $200,000,000 by Germany.

The United Kingdom is a big customer of this Nation's wares, but this "Spiggotee" Nation south of the Equator sold the English about a third as much as we did. Not so bad.

There is much gratification, however, in the fact that our commercial travelers are evidently learning some wisdom, for we sold these Latins nearly twice as much as did the tradesmen from London.

LIVING STONES

You can take a stone that has just come from the quarry and break it in two. Then it becomes two stones, one just as important as the other, if they are of equal size and quality. You can continue to crack that stone up until you make small particles of it and spread it on the roadway, and you will have done but a simple thing. This stone was one stone; now it is many little stones, and nobody cares.

But take a stone out of the pavement of the Appian Way. History has marched over it for 2,200 years. It has resounded to the tramp of the Roman legions. Warriors, emperors, despoilers and builders have trod upon its surface. Monarchs and slaves and soldiers have passed over it, and have gone their way to their common home in the earth. Tears and blood have fallen upon it from eyes and veins that had turned to dust centuries before Columbus set foot upon the Western world.

I do not think you can break this stone in such a way that you can make two stones of it. I believe that this stone has acquired a personality. You can wound it. You can smash it. But you will have the fragments of a broken stone; not a collection of stones made by breaking up another stone.

A servant who has been in your family for a great many years has acquired some rights beyond the mere right to a prompt payment of the agreed wage. No people recognize this fact more readily and naturally than the southern United States families in which colored servants have been long in service. There are many such families whose colored servants are descendants of slaves who served those same families. Such servants have rights that the employers never question. Discharge is unheard of. And the servants feel reciprocal obligations toward their employers in such cases.

An employe who has served a firm in whatever capacity for years and years, and has given the best of his life to forwarding the interests of his employer, has a status entirely different from that of an ordinary employe who may be discharged or demoted or shifted upon short notice. Most employers, large and small, recognize this circumstance, and some of the largest corporations are most reasonable in dealing with old employes who have served long and well.

Human association does something to things and animals and persons. A church in which generations have worshipped is not just a combination of stones and mortar and slate. It was that when it was new, but now it has a personality of its own, and I think it has rights of its own, too. You cannot make a warehouse out of it without doing violence to a venerable personality, as though you should slap a patriarch in the face.

Rain Fails To Mar Pageant

Annual Presentation Takes Place At Westminster On Saturday

MISS PHYLLIS COLEY CROWNED AS QUEEN

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, May 28.—Rain held off long enough Saturday afternoon to permit one of the most unique and beautiful May Day pageants ever put on by the Westminster students to dance its way to a successful culmination on the college athletic field.

The pageant which was a representation of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" abridged and added to by the college pageantry class, started promptly at 4:30 o'clock and continued for two hours. At the opening of the pageant, Queen Elizabeth (Miss Helen Hastings) strolled with her court in the woods and meeting William Shakespeare played by Paul Campbell, commanded him to set before her a show of flowers, fairies, elves and sprites.

Accordingly the main portion of the pageant is enacted before the Queen and her court who looked on from a beautifully constructed white throne platform. In these following dances and parts which included Oberon, king of Fairyland (played by James Blackwood); Titiania, queen of Fairyland (played by Miss Phyllis Coley 1928 May Queen); Theseus, duke of Athens (played by Norman Schenk) and Hippolita, queen of the Amazons (played by Miss Lois Wagoner) the sketch put on by "Hard handed men of Athens" was the feature of the afternoon.

This comical part in which six of the young men of the school played, gave a ludricrous parody on some of the scenes of "Midsumer Nights Dream" and drew both voluminous applause and laughter from the crowd that watched the performance.

Following this comical scene William Shakespeare departed with the pages of Queen Elizabeth to summon and lead in Titiania to be crowned Queen of May. In the scene of the coronation the acting of four year old James McLaughry IV, changling boy, was a feature.

After the coronation of Miss Coley as the 1928 Queen of May of Westminster the whole cast of the pageant (150 students) marched around the field for the Recessional.

Mrs. Mary C. McConaghy of the college public speaking department was director in chief of the pageant Miss Claudia Zittman directed the dances, James Trotter directed the instrumental musical accompanyment and Alan B. Davis directed the vocal musical accompanyment.

The new stamp is of the two-cent denomination and of the same size as the regular two-cent stamp. The illustration on the stamp is of Washington kneeling in prayer in front of a clump of trees. In the background is shown a horse and two or three aides.

Across the top of the picture are the words "Valley Forge", with the dates 1778 and 1928. Across the bottom of the stamp are the words "In God we trust".

WOMEN'S WORK

How many know there is a women's bureau in the United States department of labor, and that it has done some excellent work? One of the earliest acts of this bureau was to fix standards for women in industry. In brief form, here are the standards:

1. Equal pay for equal work.
2. An eight-hour day; a half holiday on Saturday; one day's rest in seven.
3. At least 30 minutes for meals.
4. Ten minutes rest in the middle of each half day without lengthening the day.
5. No employment between midnight and 6 a. m.
6. Clean work places, with special attention to floors to prevent slipping.
7. Enough light, but no glare.
8. Adequate ventilation. Provision against heat, humidity, dust and fumes.
9. Guarded machinery. Protection against other hazards.
10. A chair for each woman, built on posture lines, adjusted to both worker and job. Neither constant sitting nor constant standing.
11. Sanitary and accessible drinking water; individual cups or sanitary fountains.
12. Sanitary accessible washing facilities; hot and cold water; soap; individual towels.
13. Sanitary toilets, one to every 15 women.
14. Dressing rooms for rest periods.
15. Lunch rooms, with hot food where possible.
16. No prohibition of women's employment in any industry, except those proved to be more injurious to women than to men.
17. No home work.
18. A competent woman personnal officer in charge of all matters affecting women employes is recommended.

J. Crawford White Relates Early Days At Martin Gantz

J. Crawford White, Euclid avenue, prominent resident of the city and member of one of the pioneer families of this district, was one of the school boys of Martin Gantz school in the years previous to the civil war.

As he entered The News Office, and was invited to tell something about his experiences as a school boy in Martin Gantz, he remarked that he was feeling fine and fit.

"Are you feeling as young as you did at Martin Gantz" was the question then asked of him.

"I'd say that I do" was his reply.

In speaking of Martin Gantz school days of years gone by, Mr. White remarked:—"My worthy friend Harvey McGoun covered so thoroughly with regard to Martin Gantz school days, that there is little remaining for the rest of us to do except endorse what he so well said.

"However, if I should relate some experiences in the early fifties, it might reveal conditions as they existed in Western Pennsylvania in the little town of New Castle.

"When I was in No. 2 in Martin Gantz school our teacher being Clara McMillen, for a long time there frequently came a tame crow to one of the west windows and would sit on the sill and detract the attention of the boys and girls from their studies.

"Our teacher didn't like that. She would go to the window, raise it and strike at the crow with her ruler in an attempt to drive it away and the crow would curse and swear at her fearfully.

"Just to think that anybody would be so wicked as to teach a poor crow to take the name of our creator and most high God in vain.

"We boys had a play that appealed to me. It was played during recess. We would choose sides, one side going to the rear of the school building. At a signal, we would rush to the center and have a royal tussle. My but it was great!

"But my ride in state up Jefferson street and past the school building daily during the summer time appealed to me more than anything else.

"My father, Joseph S. White lived downtown. I was too small to trust me with one of his spirited horses, so in the morning, he would put me on old Buck, his faithful lead ox and "we" like Lindy, proceeded up the widest street of the city today, taking father's milk cows to his pastures, which laid between the north city line and Craig street.

"When we would get up to the pastures, I would open the bars and let the motive power of "we" in with the milk cows. Frequently and shortly after putting the bars up, my beloved old uncle Billy Maitland would overtake me and tug to get me up behind me on his horse. He gave me the honor of riding back to town on a horse.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE ALARM

Never did there live a more curious boy than Peter.

"And when you crossed the wide sea were you home, Bobolink?" asked he. Bobolink shook his head and Mrs. Bobolink snickered.

"Home! I should think not!" chirped Bobolink. "We had only come to the West Indies! And we spent quite a while on the islands winging our way from one island to another—we had a friend or two on every one. But along about the first of April, and no Bobolink needs a calendar to keep track of the months, we felt a longing for old Georgia and then the Carolina rice fields.

"When May began to build the house for summer to dwell in—draped the trees in apple blossoms, carpeted the fields with green grass and buttercups, northward we flew to home, sweet home. With us came a gay crowd. What good times we had! What we saw! But for all our vagabonding how glad we are to be here."

"There, Sonny-Bunny, do you hear that?" demanded Mrs. Gray Rabbit, turning to her son. "Mr. Robert O'Lincoln says he is happy to be home again. Isn't that just what I'm always telling you that no matter how far you may wander you will be sure to wish yourself back in the rabbit hole again!"

Young Bunny didn't pay much attention to what his mother was saying.

"Well, if Mr. Robert O'Lincoln has flown so far, why doesn't he tell us about the sight he has seen on his journey?" asked that small rabbit, wriggling his pink nose and twitching his tiny ears. "I for one would like to hear about something that happened outside of this tiresome old meadow."

"So should I," declared Peter.

"And I," added Mrs. Gray Rabbit, then gently reproved her son with a low voice, "The idea to speak so of your own home, my dear."

Bobolink was delighted to find every one so interested.

"Why, of course, I'll tell you all that I can remember and when I come to a place where I forget maybe wifie will help me out."

So Bobolink settled more comfortably upon his perch and began.

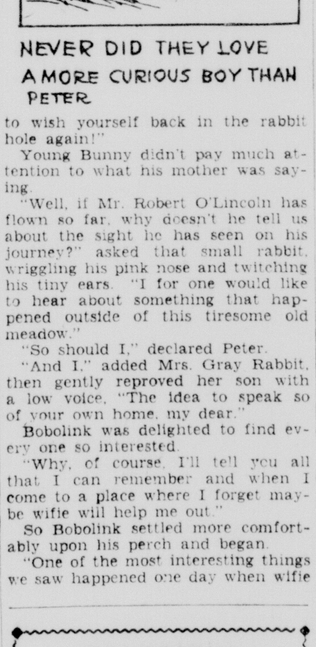

"One of the most interesting things we saw happened one day when wifie and I had wandered away from the pampas grass. We flew farther than we had intended and suddenly found ourselves at the edge of the most beautiful spot in the world. Before us stretched a wide plain upon which grew the greenest grass we had ever seen. Here and there bright colored flowers nodded their gay heads and in the sunshile hundreds of birds and butterflies and bees were dancing.

"It was so warm there that wife and I wished our feather coats were not so heavy, but as we gazed about us we saw—far in the distance—high mountains and the tops of these mountains were covered with snow.

"We were just about to join the merry crowd when we heard a cry of alarm. Quick as a flash all the birds and butterflies and the bees disappeared and we were left alone."

SLEEPING SICKNESS CAUSE OF DEATH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 28.—Sleeping sickness caused another death in Fayette county, the second within three days. Mrs. Etta J. Hill, 51, wife of Henry R. Hill, assistant postmaster in Uniontown, succumbed to the disease.

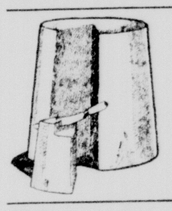

She has been asleep soundly until Tuesday night when she was aroused and remained awake for about an hour. Later she lapsed into a stupor and remained in that condition until her death. During the hour of consciousness Tuesday night she was able to understand the conversation of members of the family but could not talk. Before her attack her health seemed to be about normal.

Sale Of Buddy Poppies In City Nets $1,370

Exceeding by several hundred dollars the returns of the Buddy Poppy day of last year the Buddy Poppy day Saturday under the auspices of the Harry L. McBride Post No. 522, Veterans of Foreign Wars was a decided success and showed the appeal that it has to the people of this city.

The committee in charge consisting of William S. Lewis chairman, William H. Dunlap and Orville Potter reported today that the total cash receipts from the sale of Buddy Poppies on Saturday was $1,370.12.

This means that after $750 has been remitted for the fifteen thousand poppies purchased for the day and all of which were sold with the exception of a very few and the small expense of the drive have been paid that the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will still have nearly $600 for the relief of World War veterans and their families in this district during the coming year.

It must also be remembered that practically all of the $750 paid for the poppies went to disabled World War veterans who made them and to the support of the national home of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Eaton Falls, Minn., where widows and orphans of World War veterans are cared for.

Sixty-seven girls of the Senior and Benjamin Franklin Junior High school responded to the call for saleslades and worked from 6 a. m. to 8 p. m. Saturday to make this wonderful result possible. They were provided with lunches at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home 329 Neshannock avenue which the auxiliary of the post served.

Three Ben Franklin girls won the prizes offered for collecting the most money for the poppies sold .Miss Dorothy Sankey won first prize of $10 by collecting ..67.65. Miss Sankey had not signed up to sell poppies but decided at the last moment that she would help and went out and did so well that she won the first prize .The second prize of $5 went to Miss Mary Norton who collected $55.03 while Miss Marie Haering won the third prize of $3 with collections amounting to $51. There were a number of girls who collected more than $40.

Master Buddie Bell not yet six years old proved a pretty good salesman, turning in $18.62.

It will perhaps be of interest to the people of the city to know just how vast the number of coins that were collected Saturday.

According to Orville Potter there was $54 in paper money of various denominations; 133 half dollars; 1,445 quarters, 6,055 dimes, 4,204 nickles and 3,067 pennies.

The standing of the girls at the finish of the day follows:

Dorothy Sankey, Mary Norton, Marie Haering, Elizabeth Cross, Marjorie Bell, Revina Simon, Anna Dout, Jessie Fallen, Maxime Bollard , Betty Edwards, Madge Gardner, Lois Perque, Mary D. FATE OF DIRIGIBLE AND BRAVE CREW ARE UNCERTAINTY

famed for his knowledge of the Arctic regions, to proceed northward towards North Eastland, Spitzbergen, with a dog team to search for the Italia.

Norway Joins Search

LONDON, May 28.—Norway took active steps today to begin an air search for the missing Italian exploration balloon Italia.

A Norwegian naval plane left Oslo for the north to hunt for the missing Arctic expedition, according to copyrighted Central News dispatch from Oslo. The pilot planned to land at Tramso for fuel before continuing to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, which place will be the base of operations.

The tragic disappearance of the balloon and the dramatic search that will shortly be under way in the frozen north has engaged the attention of the entire world. The secret of the fate of the explorers was still locked up today in the icebound Arctic.

After flying over the North Pole on Thursday morning, where a wooden cross that had been donated and blessed by Pope Piux XI was dropped, the balloon ran into fog and storm which blew it from its course.

Ship Is Balked

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, May 28.—Balked by ice floes through which she could not pass, the supply ship Citta Di Milano, which had set out to search for the missing exploration balloon Italia, has turned back, according to a radiogram received here this afternoon. The ship, which left King's Bay yesterday morning, ran into heavy ice and stormy weather off Amsterdam Island, on the northern coast of Spitzbergen. The commander reported that the high wind was piling up a great wall of ice.

Pick Up Messages.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Radio corporation operators were checking all possible sources today in an effort to identify definitely the location of the short wave length station which early yesterday broadcast a distress call from the missing dirigible Italia.

The relayed distress call as picked up here read:

"Dirigible of General Nobile in distress. Supplied with short wave length 30.33 radio.
(Signed) "Dirigible Italia—General Umberto Nobile."

By a process of elimination, radio operators here have agreed that the S. O. S. was sent out by a Siberian station.

Three expert operators of the Radio Corporation of America, as well as several amateur operators, were keeping a constant vigil here today on short wave lengths, ranging from 30 to 40 meters, in the hope that additional signals may be intercepted that will afford some clue to the location of the dirigible.

The trio of experienced radio men were assigned to the task of concentrating on the 30 to 40 meter range as the result of a distress call, picked up early yesterday by Radio corporation and amateur operators here.

Location Indefinite.

The location of the approximate point, where the call originated or was relayed, had not been ascertained early today and all efforts to communicate with the sender proved futile. This, coupled with the fact that the call was received in somewhat garbled form with several words misspelled, led experts of the Radio corporation to discard the earlier theory that it might have been broadcast by an amateur station in northern Siberia and to express the opinion that the message was transmitted directly from the lost dirigible.

On the other hand, Charles E. Blalack, an amateur operator who intercepted the call, declared that, in his opinion, the signals were broadcast by an amateur in Siberia in the vicinity of Vladivostok.

Operators at the naval radio station here, though failing to intercept any signals from the polar regions, nevertheless maintained an alert lookout on the short wave length range.

The search of the ether waves for trace of the Italia was without result. As the day advanced possibility of distance reception faded.

The Alaska Packers association, in direct touch with its far flung stations within the Arctic circle, had nothing to report.

Radio experts were frankly puzzled at the reception phenomenon which enabled local stations to pick up the distress call of the Italia while stations farther north apparently missed it.

Desperate Efforts.

That desperate efforts to reach the outside world are being made by the operator aboard the exploration balloon, was indicated by Radio corporation operators and amateurs, who picked up the distress call, when they revealed today that the message was received in at least three languages.

Blalack reported that he received the repeated distress call in English, French and Italian. Radio corporation operators stated that faint signals indicated that the call was also being repeated in Norwegian.

The wave length also varied from time to time, indicating the Italia's operator was transmitting on lengths, running from one limit to the other of his equipment, which ordinarily sends on a 30.33 meter length wave.

Blalack's belief that the call originated in northern Siberia, where, he said, it was probably relayed by an amateur station, was supported by his report that the message was preceded by the letters A S, which designates stations in Siberia.

This theory, however, was contradicted by Radio corporation operators, who stated that, if the message had been relayed, its reception would have been clearer and several errors in the spelling of English words might have been corrected. They also pointed to the failure of their efforts to communicate with the sender of the call as an indication that the receiving appartus of the Italia is impaired, while the transmitting equipment is probably in order.

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, May 28.—In addition to 18 men, the Italia carried a dog mascot. This was Gen. Umberto Nobile's pet terrier Titania. The explorer was deeply attached to the little animal and said he believed its presence would bring good luck to the expedition.

PROPER WAY TO DISPLAY FLAG

Only Two Proper Ways To Display The American Flag

There are only two ways to properly display the America flag, according to the United States army. It should either be freely unfurled from a staff with the starry field or Union toward the peak, or it may be hung either lengthwise or breadthwise with the Union always uppermost and to the observer's left as he faces the flag.

Any other manner of display of the American flag, although not strictly a violation of the law, is offensive to persons of patriotic feeling and shows a lack of respect for the flag and qualities for which it stands.

Whether indoors or out, the flag should never be fashioned into a rosette, bow-knot etc., or draped in any way. Use bunting. Use of the flag for athletic uniforms, handkerchiefs, napkins or other purposes lacking in dignity or respect should not be permitted.

On a staff from a window the flag may be displayed either horizontally or at an angle, with the Union, except when at half-mast, at the uttermost point of the staff. If suspended across a street, the flag should be hung vertically, with the Union uppermost and to the north in an east and west street and to the east in a north and south street.

On a speaker's platform the American flag, if not flown from a staff, should be displayed flat and placed at the back and above the speaker. If on a staff, the flag should be at the right of the speaker.

DISCUSS MANY PHASES OF INSURANCE AT CONVENTION

Says Insurance Is Real Business

Falls Tells Insurance Men That It Is Not Profession Nor Science

MAKES IMPRESSIVE TALK TO DELEGATES

Reducing the selling of insurance to the cold impersonal terms of business, Laurence E. Falls, vice president of the American Insurance company of Newark, N. J., spoke to the insurance delegates in the Scottish Rite Cathedral shortly after the afternoon session convened today.

Mr. Falls took for his subject "Insurance in Business" and among other things said:

Insurance is a business—it is not a profession, nor a science. Insurance has been built after the manner of other lines of business activity and when successful has been managed along the lines and upon the principles which have been proved sound in other business. I should like to examine with you the inter-relationship between this business of insurance and other lines of business, because I believe that when we come to realize the inter-dependability of individuality of individuals and business, we will acquire a more sympathetic understanding of the problems with which othere are engaged and greater tolerance for the view-points of our associates. If we in the insurance business were guilty of an unreasoning condemnation of banks and railroads and any other activities with which we are probably only slightly familiar, we should expect to be assailed by those who have necessarily little knowledge of, and therefore scant sympathy with the problems which we are earnestly trying to solve in the interest of fair dealing.

Let us consider one retail business and superficially at least, its interrelationship to the insurance business. What we find in this instance is true of nearly every commercial activity—many to an even greater extent. In the business of selling furs at retail, we first find the retailer dependent upon the fur trapper; then the steamship and the railroad for transportation; the storage business for safe-keeping in certain months; the banking business for financing; the building business for housing his retail establishment. Now of these the principal business upon which the retail fur dealer is dependent, let us see what is his and their reliance upon the business of insurance. The railroad predicates its security for finance partly upon the insurance it carries. Maritime authorities have stated that no ship would leave its port tomorrow if the business of shipping were deprived of the facilities of only one insurance underwriting organization—that of Lloyds, London, and travel by sea would be at a standstill until another such insurance carrier were in operation. The fur exporter would not put his wares to the hazard of a long sea voyage unless he could have insurance. And arrived at New York these furs repose in a storage warehouse protected by insurance until our retailer from New Castle buys them and orders them shipped to him here. He takes $25,000 in money down to New York and buys $100,000 worth of furs. The jobber extends our merchant 60 days' credit, but the furs will not be sold to the ultimate consumer in 60 days and each of the parties to the trade is cognizant of the fact. Our retailer ships the furs to New Castle, protected by Transportation Insurance against the hazards of fire, collision and derailment, realizing that he has at stake $25,000 of his own capital and $75,000 of obligation which he has assumed to the wholesaler. Arrived in New Castle the bills of lading and furs are delivered to a bonded warehouseman, who issues receipts for the stock. The warehouse receipts, accompanied by insurance policies, are given to the bank and accepted as collateral for a loan with which to pay the wholesaler; and so a deal is made, and madame in America wears an Ermine coat from the frozen wastes of Kamchatka at a fraction of the cost which would be necessarily charged if each of the purveyors was obliged to furnish all the capital required to run his business and also had to bear the risks of loss by fire and other insurable hazards.

In conclusion may I urge that each of us in this business of insurance remember that it is an honorable business contributing its part to the welfare of the country by giving its citizens not only the feeling of security but the substance thereof, which enables them to devote their energies and their accumulated savings to the enlargement an extension of industry. Let us make oupr selves so familiar with the basic principles upon which the business relies for its success that we can explain it to any business man; and above all let us each display that respect for our business which we expect others to hold.

Hall Was Booster Of Auto Campaign

Speaker At Insurance Convention Behind "Save A Life Campaign" In State

Motorists who had their automobile inspected in the "Save A Life Campaign" in April will be interested to know that the man back of the campaign, John J. Hall, of Philadelphia, is one of the speakers at the "Pennsylvania Insurance Days" in the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Mr. Hall has put on similar campaigns in other states but stated in an address this morning that the Pennsylvania campaign was one of the most successful he had done. The campaign was put on under the sponsorship of the State Highway Department and some amazing results were accomplished.

Over 1,127,000 automobiles were inspected of which 58 per cent were found to be defective. Over 64,000 cars inspected had no brakes, and adjustments were made on 274,000. Those needing headlight adjustments numbered 450,000 while 25,000 cars had to have their lights replaced.

Mr. Hall is a young man but has apparently mastered the subject upon which he spoke. His ideas in such campaigns as were put on in Pennsylvania dovetail in with the safety measures of the insurance companies and his address today was an interesting part of the program.

have the ladies visit the Shenango Pottery on Tuesday morning."

In his characteristic manner, Mr. Love interspersed humor with his formal welcome and at the close was roundly applauded. The response to his address was made by R. K. Rodgers of Erie, Pa. He expressed the appreciation of the insurance delegates for the courteous treatment accorded thus far and ventured the opinion that this would be the best convention of its kind ever held in the history of the federation.

Annual Address of President Diggs.

Following these formalities the work of the convention got under way, President William S. Diggs delivering his annual address. This address is published in other columns of today's News, and contains some interesting reading.

W. M. Goodwin of Bethlehem, Pa., a former president of the federation, and associate chairman of the day, was then asked to introduce T. Alfred Fleming of New York, conservation engineer for the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York City.

Mr. Fleming is an entertaining speaker and gives evidence of many years on the platform. His solid facts were so garnished with interesting and humorous interpolations that the audience found his time all too short. His subject was "The Place of Insurance in Future Prosperity". Public relations and fire prevention were stressed by Mr. Fleming.

"The insurance agent must tell the world about insurance if he expects the world to buy it," he said. "Advertising, or public relations—and they are the same thing—will put insurance in its proper place with relation to the future prosperity of this country."

Following Mr. Fleming, John S. Turn, vice president and manager of the New York office of the Aetna Life and affiliated companies, spoke on "57 Varieties of Insurance and How to Develop Them Properly." This address is also carried in other columns of today's News.

John J. Hall, managing director of the Save-A-Life campaign in April, was the last speaker of the morning session. A resume of his remarks is carried in other columns of today's News.

At noon the delegates had lunch in the dining room of the cathedral, Hugh D. Hart, vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia, Pa., being the speaker.

She is old enough to be called "Miss" if you can't count her trips to the drug store by the number of spots on her frock.

Discusses Many Insurance Lines

New York Man Talks To Delegates On 57 Kinds Of Insurance

DEVELOPMENT OF BUSINESS SHOWN

Speaking to the delegates and visitors to the "Pennsylvania Insurance Days", the convention of insurance men of Pennsylvania, now in session in the Scottish Rite cathedral, John S. Turn, vice president and manager of the New York office of the Aetna Life and affiliated companies, spoke on "Fifty-seven Varieties of Insurance and How To Properly Develop them."

In his address Mr. Turn took up the various lines of insurance and developed the points of each. In part he said the following:

I am not going to discuss all of these 57 varieties, but will endeavor to outline a plan whereby you can develop them, increase production and overcome production leaks.

You perhaps know that there are individuals or concerns who render insurance, and who do not act in any agency or brokerage capacity—that is, they do not directly place business nor do they receive any commission on business which may be placed as the result of their recommendations. Therefore, inasmuch as these individuals and concerns seem to thrive—just what is the significance of the evident demand for an insurance service of this kind? Is it possible that they are in any way better qualified to render advice on insurance subjects than well informed agents and brokers? May this not be an indication that agents and brokers are failing to give this class of service?

It would seem that the reason why the service of such individuals and concerns is accepted and paid for on a fee basis by business concerns is that agents and brokers have failed to approach them to get their consent to make a complete analysis which would determine the sources of loss which may be covered by insurance.

The fact that this service is used by business concerns indicates that they are seeking accurate advice on their insurance problems, and believing that most agents and brokers are as well qualified to give the service, it would indicate that they are neglecting a duty that should be performed by them, and it is a reflection on them that such service should be thought necessary.

Those of us who have followed the insurance business for 25 or more years have seen the gradual development from single line offices to those who are now equipped to sell every known line of insurance.

It is the ambition of every live, wide-awake agent or broker to gain complete control of his client's insurance of all kinds, and to become his counselor and adviser in all of his insurance requirements. While the above statement is no doubt correct as to the ambition of the agent and broker, I believe but a small portion have actually accomplished it.

An agent or broker fails in his duty to his client if he does not tell him what his sources of loss are, and how they may be protected by insurance, and what it will cost. To do this, he must secure from his client the privilege of analyzing what his assured's sources of loss are which may be protected by insurance and the privilege of an inspection may be required to enable him to do this. With the analysis complete, he can prepare his case of further coverage for consideration. In doing this he will justify his client's confidence and no doubt ultimately secure for himself what has been his purpose—the exclusive representation, and become his assured's counselor and adviser, and sole representative in insurance matters of every kind. Such a result is the finest and most profitable kind of salesmanship.

In this, as in all constructive work, one must have a well conceived basic plan to guide them. It is my idea that a schedule or outline, which gives expression in ready reference form to all sources of loss and the kind of insurance that can be obtained to cover same, and at the same time show the amount of insurance already carried by the client to cover these sources of loss, is an absolute necessity in order to determine fully and completely what his unfilled requirements are. Furthermore, if the relationship already established between the agent and broker and his client is one where the client has accepted him as his counselor and sole representative in all matters pertaining to insurance, such a plan then provides a way for the agent or broker to effect a complete check on himself as to whether or not he is fulfilling his obligation and responsibility to his client. When an analysis by this means has been made and a copy of such plan is prepared in duplicate for both the client and the agent or broker, the agent or broker is then in a position to discuss these matters with his client and have an understanding at that time that either the insurance deemed necessary be provided or the client fully realize that he is assuming the risk, himself.

New York Man Makes Address

T. ALFRED FLEMING

One of the interesting speakers on this morning's program of "Pennsylvania Days", the insurance convention now going on in the Scottish Rite cathedral, was T. Alfred Fleming. Mr. Fleming is the supervisor of the conservation department of the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York City, and a speaker of force.

State President Makes Address

William S. Diggs Of Pittsburgh Discusses Progress In Past Year

GIVES EXPRESSION TO APPRECIATION

WILLIAM S. DIGGS

William S. Diggs, president of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania during the past year, delievered his last formal address to the insurance men of the state today in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, during the morning session of "Insurance Days."

During his year's incumbency Mr. Diggs has seen the organization make some satisfactory strides, and as president it has been his pleasure to see this present convention, perhaps the most successful of any insurance convention held since the inception of the Insurance Federation in 1906.

Support Of Underwriters

In his closing address to his associates, Mr. Diggs said,

A movement involving time and financial support has no economic right to exist, that does not meet a real need; nor has it an ethical right to exist if it does not perform a public service. In view of the foregoing I am tempted to assume that the Insurance Federation of Pa. Inc., has justified its existance and earned its right to the support of the entire fabric of insurance underwriting, which support it now enjoys.

This is the age of co-operation, it is the law of life and growth, and men and institutions cease to thrive without it. The strength of unity is indisputable, whereas nothing can do more to retard the progress of a movement than lack of co-operative effort.

The reasons for lack of co-operation are two-fold; one is that men are often too limited in their vision to agree on what is best to be done, thereby missing the "main chance" while quibbling over small differences; the other is that selfish motives often mislead men who are self-centered into thinking what they can succeed better alone. Some men really enjoy this delusion. A dispassionate frank exchange of views and ideas will correct the first; the recognition that the common good of all is the real good of the individual and that it is far greater than any good he can hope to obtain for himself, will overcome the second. We cannot brush aside the inexorable law of inter-dependence, it has become a fundamental in all business life. He who lives to himself bars out progress, shuts out the World and in so doing shuts himself in.

The value of the get-to-gether spirit cannot be controverted. It is the one principle which must be followed by all having large interests in their charge, if they would procure for such interests public favor and the respect they deserve. We must be prepared at a moment's notice to defend successfully the interests intrusted to us against loose exploitation born of the spirit of paternalism to which democracies are prone in dealing with first one and then another of the most vital features of our economic and social existence.

The economic importance of, and the recognition given insurance stands out in most startling fashion. It is a gigantic institution. It is one of the largest, if not the largest and most important interests in the whole world of business. Insurance comes into the home to stay the hand of poverty and want when the pall of sorrow falls. Phenix like it rebuilds upon the ashes of the stricken home and industry. It comes into the paralized business life of a community like a modern miracle, not only to indemnify for loss of life and property but to conserve both through preventative measures. The development of the various forms of Casualty protection has amazed the business world. No other business remotely approaches insurance when it comes to meeting the growing and ever recurring needs of modern civilization.

The co-operation of insurance interests, as contemplated by the Federation, is highly necessary and the fiscal year just ending has probably enjoyed a larger measure of co-operation in Pennsylvania from certain important insurance factors than in any previous year. May I register an expression of deep appreciation for your valuable and untiring support?

Insurance men, whether operating as an agency, in the field, or at the Home Office must realize that as individuals we can do but little, and that our only hope is in the meeting of men and minds going forward in a common cause, dealing with questions of general interest to underwriting, serving the whole insurance structure and the public with no diverse opinions on the main issue. This broader vision and longer perspective makes the "INSURANCE DAYS" movement most effective.

The Federation has found "INSURANCE DAYS" a fine educational field and an opportunity for important conferences.

The World's Insurance Congress and the Panama Pacific International Exposition gave official recognition to April 18, 1914, the Anniversary of the San Francisco Earth Quake and Fire as "Insurance Day" and suggested that is become National in scope. This important action had almost faded in our memories when Frank M. Chandler effectively revived the idea several years ago by successfully observing under his fine leadership the "INSURANCE DAYS" idea in the State of Indiana. Since that time "INSURANCE DAYS" have been observed with equal success in other States and President Martin of the Insurance Federation of America recently appointed Mr. Chandler, Chairman of a committee with a view to making the observance National.

To a most gratifying degree every class of insurance underwriting is co-operating in the "INSURANCE DAYS" Convention now in session in this beautiful edifice erected by the enterprising people of this community.

The old-timers weren't really afraid to say "leg". They just said it less because they thought about it less.

Calls Attention To Many Lines

Springfield Man Talks On Marine And Auto Insurance Lines

OUTLINES GROWTH OF VARIOUS LINES

Insurance in its many ramifications, and the advantages of the side line policies, were discussed in a most entertaining manner this afternoon by S. F. Law, assistant secretary of the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Springfield, Mass. The address of Mr. Law was delivered before the insurance convention now in session in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, and the gist of his remarks follows:

I have been asked to bring to your attention certain of the inland marine lines, including automobile insurance, that are now being written by fire insurance companies, and which, although good premium producers, are many times overlooked by agents in their solicitation of fire and casualty business.

One of the most interesting features in the development of the insurance business in this country has been the constant growth in different kinds of insurance written. In the earlier days when one spoke of insurance there were but three different kinds that came to mind, namely: marine, fire and life. Today there is such a multiplicity of lines written that an agent must at least familiarize himself to a certain extent with most of them in order to meet the competition from other agents and give his clients the proper service.

An agent should strive to write, for every one of his assureds every form of insurance which he may need to meet any contingency. If he does not do this some other agent may point out some hazard against which he is not protected and, through this service, secure a foothold which may prove disastrous to the original agent controling the assured's business. Furthermore, your assured may suffer a severe loss against which he is not protected, and if he has left his insurance in your hands to see that he is properly covered, you can readily appreciate his reaction. The chances are that his insurance will be placed elsewhere in the future.

A successful agent must be a real salesman today. Industry is highly organized and is moving ahead rapidly. Merchants and manufacturers are on the alert to take advantage of every opportunity to increase their business and to see that it is operating on a firm foundation. It is up to us as insurance men to see that they are protected against every contingency.

The American Agency System has been a bulwark for good in the past, but it will not maintain its standing in the future unless the agents keep pace with business ethics of today.

I would recommend that an agent study the needs of every one of his assureds carefully and then study the various forms of coverage necessary to meet their needs.

After you have become equipped to sell your present assureds every line of cover which they may need, the next step is to obtain new clients. In order to do this I would offer the following suggestions:

1. Extend your acquaintanceship as far as possible in your city or town.

2. Join the automobile club, if there is one. By being an active member you may assist in forestalling any legislation which may prove adverse to your business and to offset such a condition you may be in a position to offer constructive suggestions to your fellow members.

3. The medium of advertising is always a good way of keeping your name before the public. Use the local papers. Rent space on a billboard well located at a turn in the main highway. Most of your companies are now, no doubt, equipped to give you service in this line. Through their advertising departments you can obtain suggestions as to forms and styles to be used.

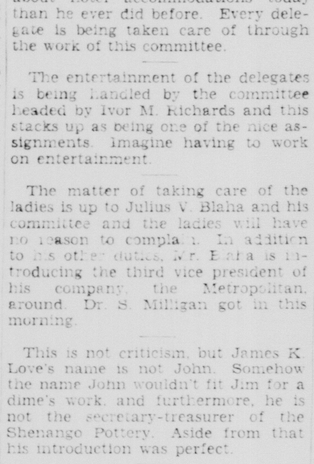

4. Do not overlook the small premiums on individual lines because a man who today may only have one automobile to insure or only a small business, will no doubt grow until some day his may be the largest account on your books. As you know, many successful banks carry a large number of small accounts, on which they may lose money, with the idea in mind that these depositors will progress until, in the future, they will bring a good profit to the bank.

5. Bring to the attention of a prospect some unusual form of cover which he needs but which very likely he has never had called to his attention. With this as an opening wedge, secure, if possible, his consent to go over his policies, submit to him a brief, outlining some definite plan of complete insurance protection. It is by rendering such service as this that the largest agencies have grown. If you are equipped to give the service needed and by so doing you can win the confidence of your assureds, there is no reason why any local manufacturer or merchant should look elsewhere to place his insurance. As you know, all companies today stand ready to assist an agent in writing any form with which he is not entirely conversant. Do not hesitate to either call upon the regular special agent or a specialty man if necessary. Many companies now have automobile as well as inland marine special agents for this very purpose. Make use of these men when they call and, whenever possible, go out with them to solicit prospects. Many large premiums may be developed this way.

The best indication that Hoover would make a good President is the character of the big boys who think he wouldn't.

There is no doubt about the fact that the world's getting better; the chief trouble is that it is too modest to exhibit it in public.—Charleston Daily Mail.

Hartford Man Makes Address

JAMES A. WHITMORE

At the afternoon session of the Pennsylvania insurance state convention, in session at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, James A. Whitmore, agency manager of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, spoke on "Life Insurance Trusts" and exhibited motion picture films illustrating life insurance trust estates. He was accompanied to the city by Cyrus T. Stevens of Hartford, Connecticut, advertising manager of the company.

Elect President During Afternoon

Believed That W. H. Kingsley Of Philadelphia Will Be State Head

Sometime this afternoon the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania will select its president for the coming year, and at noon today the impression seemed general in the convention hall that William H. Kingsley, vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pa., would be elected without opposition.

William H. Kingsley, has long been one of the outstanding life insurance executives of the United States. He is a Philadelphian by birth. Mr. Kingsley entered the service of the Penn Mutual in 1885, was its Western Financial representative from 1896 to 1903, Secretary and Treasurer of the Company from 1903 to 1906, and has been a Vice President from 1906. He is a strong figure in the financial life of his city, these being some of his connections: Director and member of Finance Committee of the United Firemen's Fire Insurance Company, Director of City Trusts, Independence Fire Insurance Company, Independence Indemnity Company, Lumbermen's Insurance Company, Franklin-Fourth Street National Bank, Finance Company of Pennsylvania. During the War he was Director of the Bureau of Personnel of the Red Cross at Washington. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Health Commission, of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, and is a Director of Girard College and Wills Eye Hospital.

Premium Notices Of Insurance Days

Life is getting to be one convention after another in New Castle. The Insurance men have the floor today, also the hotels, the Scottish Rite cathedral, the city and its environs. They got under way in the cathedral this morning and it looked like a college reunion.

The convention is termed "Pennsylvania Insurance Days", but for Joe Williams and his committee men it has got to the place where it is Insurance Daze. The boys are dizzy with all the work they have on hand but the job is being well done.

Jim Rocks is in charge of the room reservations and Jim knows more about hotel accommodations today than he ever did before. Every delegate is being taken care of through the work of this committee.

The entertainment of the delegates is being handled by the committee headed by Ivor M. Richards and this stacks up as being one of the nice assignments. Imagine having to work on entertainment.

The matter of taking care of the ladies is up to Julius V. Blaha and his committee and the ladies will have no reason to complain. In addition to his other duties, Mr. Blaha is introducing the third vice president of his company, the Metropolitan, around. Dr. S. Milligan got in this morning.

This is not criticism, but James K. Love's name is not John. Somehow the name John wouldn't fit Jim for a dime's work, and furthermore, he is not the secretary-treasurer of the Shenango Pottery. Aside from that his introduction was perfect.

Guss Dette couldn't stay away. Dette is the former secretary-manager of the federation but has now gone to work selling insurance, instead of telling others how to do it. His place is taken by Homer W. Teamer, and the proverbial one armed paper hanger in a cafeteria is loafing on the job compared to Teamer.

Music? Lots of it. Sam Lewis has charge of this, and Sam is the agent here who sings his customers into submission and then warbles them into signing on the dotted line.

President William S. Diggs is proud of the federation and is willing to take time out any time to tell you so. And he is also proud of the manner in which this convention is being handled.

As usual, the visitors who had never seen the cathedral before were amazed when they got inside. This building is one of the biggest advertisements New Castle has and every week proves the statement the more.

The agents are in also. In the lobby of the Cathedral are displays of every sort imaginable. How to sell insurance, books to keep customers names, tomes on the theory of insurance and everything in fact except advice to the customer on how to rake up his premium in the same month that he needs a suit of clothes.

If all the speeches to be delivered at this convention were placed end to end they would reach from here to somewhere else, with enough left over to provide paper enough for a small weekly.

Philadelphia Man One Of First Here

One of the first insurance men to register at The Castleton on Saturday evening was S. H. Pool of Philadelphia, Pa., resident manager of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. With Mrs. Pool he motored across the state by easy stages and spent Sunday renewing old acquaintances here.

Mr. Pool is a national councillor to the United States Chamber of Commerce, for the Insurance Federation, and organized and is the chairman of the Insurance Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce.

The two friends reported to have "cut" Mr. McAdoo probably thought he had some more chestnuts to rake out of the fire.

The trouble with a lot of favorite sons is that their adoring parents haven't anything to give them.—The Lynchburg News.

Discusses Insurance Sidelines

S. F. LAW

How an insurance man can profit by the various sidelines possible, was taken up early this afternoon by S. F. Law, assistant secretary of the Springfield Fire & Marine Insurance company of Springfield, Mass., in an address to the insurance men now in convention in the Scottish Rite cathedral. Mr. Law is an insurance man of years of experience and opened up a new vista for many of the younger men in the convention.

Speaker Coming In Plane Tuesday

Aviation will have its place in the sun in the "Pennsylvania Day" insurance convention which is in session in the Scottish Rite Cathedral today and tomorrow.

Tuesday morning, Col. Harry C. Fry, Jr., an aviator and an insurance man will fly from Pittsburgh to New Castle, to make an address before the insurance convention. He will be met at Jackson Field by President William S. Diggs and a delegation of insurance men. Col. Fry will have as his pilot, Captain Jack Morris of Pittsburgh.

Philadelphia Man Speaker.

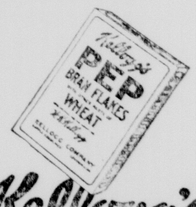

HUGH D. HART

Immediately after the noon recess today, Hugh D. Hart of Philadelphia, addressed the insurance delegates and visitors on "This Thing We Call Insurance." Mr. Hart is the vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia, Pa.

Special Court To War On Dogs Is Opened In Chicago

CHICAGO, May 28—A "Dog Court" presided over by Judge Charles McKinley, was established today. It will give the dog of bad reputation or suspicious character a hearing. The dog's master will be arraigned with his dog chiefly as a character witness.

Health Commissioner Kegel, who has been warring on dogs since he took office four months ago, requested Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal Court to create a court for dogs.

Dr. Kegel will have persons who have been bitten in court to testify against their assailants.

The dogs will not be allowed to clutter up the court. Contrary to the laws governing criminal trials, dogs can be tried without being present.

Unmuzzled dogs will be hailed into court and their masters made responsible for the canine freedom of jaw.

Vagrant dogs will have a miserable summer. There is no sympathy for them. Lethal gas is the finish of the canine hobo if he gets into court.

Boys Confess Death Of Chum

Two Connecticut Youngsters Reveal Shooting Of Companion And Burial Of Body

CLAIM SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENT

(International News Service)

DANBURY, Conn., May 28.—Fear of the hangman's noose prompted two 15-year-old boys of thiscity to conceal the accidental death of their chum, Arthur McAuliffe, they told police today. McAuliffe also 15 was shot through the heart on a camping trip when a gun held by Charles Luddington exploded, according to Luddington and the third boy, Robert Bishop.

Tht boys cannot be prosouted for a felonny under Connecticut law because they are under 16. They are at their homes in custody of their parents and face charges of juvenile delinquincy.

In the panic that followed realization their chum was dead, they said, they first threw his body into Lake Danbury on the shores of which the tragedy occurred. Then they dragged the body about 75 yards up the shore and started to dig a grave for him with their bare hands.

Overcome by horror they abandoned the attempt and fled from the scene agreeing to "tell nobody what had happened and to run away together and never come back again."

But the resolve was forgotten when the mother of one, seeing her son's overwrought condition questioned him as to the cause.

Prohibition Agents Must Wear Uniforms Is Edict Of Doran

Agents Patroling Highways At Night Can Be Easily Identified

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Prohibition agents patroling public highways will be equipped with distinctive uniforms, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran announced today.

This important step, long advocated in Congress, is a supreme effort to prevent unnecessary killings that have taken place as the result of agents stopping automobiles on the roads.

Doran declared that it is only natural that automobilists haited at night or on lonely highways, by uniformed men, frequently of rough appearance because of hard duty of long days in the field, become suspicious and make an effort to escape.

Circumstances of this character frequently have led agents to fire on fleeing automobiles and in unnecessary casualties when the government men were mistaken for robbers. An agent at Huntington, West Va., recently was discharged by the Treasury department for firing into an automobile which fled after being accosted by the federal sleuth.

"It possibly will not be necessary to equip the agents with full uniforms," Doran said. "My present plan is to furnish caps of distinctive design and ornamented with a large easily recognized shield to the agents whose duties require the patroling of roads and stopping of automobiles.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Now if any of you folks would like to have a nice fresh insurance policy today we have them. Any size or any color, and any condition. Insure you against fire, flood or the seventeen-year locust. Sickness, accident or saxophone playing. Flat feet, halitosis or broken contracts. Anything that happens or can happen, you can get an insurance policy on it today and tomorrow, for the insurance men of the state are meeting here in convention.

Up around The Castleton lobby all you can hear is insurance. Short term contracts, twenty pay life, casualty, boiler and plate glass differentials, how to sign 'em on the dotted line what Joe McGloopus sold last month with one arm in a sling, and whether or not compulsory automobile insurance is a good thing.

By Tuesday night I should be able to quote you a rate on any known form of insurance for the roaming will be continually and continuously among these lads of the expansive smile and oversized fountain pen.

Humor is a strange sort of thing. What is humor to one is tragedy to another, and what brings tears of laughter to the eyes of some, brings tears of rage to others.

Perhaps my sense of humor is distorted and perhaps a joke escapes me at times but I am still groping for the point of the joke that was perpetrated on the Wilmington road Saturday afternoon.

Some chaps had tied a large can to the tail of a dog and set him lose. Frightened and pained the dog ran out onto the Wilmington road, zigzagging crazily across the road and barely missed being hit by a passing automobile.

And some how or other I just couldn't find a laugh for that joke if that's what it was. For after all the dog was being hurt and might have been killed.

Proverbial Westminster weather saved the day for the May Day pageant at New Wilmington Saturday. For a time it looked as though the boys and girls in the spectacle might need gum boots or umbrellas but true to tradition just before show time the sun came out and everything was hotsy-totsy.

A colorful sort of thing to be sure, one that looked better from a vantage point up on the hillside than it did from the cash customers seats in the bleachers.

Mine Workers In "Outlaw" Session

Special District Convention Of United Mine Workers Opens In Pittsburgh

PLAN TO ELECT NEW OFFICIALS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—What is declared by officials of the United Mine Workers to be an "outlaw" convention was to get under way here today when more than 200 delegates from local unions in district No. 5 United Mine Workers of America, gathered at a special district convention called under "save the union" auspices.

The program of the special convention was to include the election of new district officers and to declare vacant the offices held by Patrick Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America; William J. Patton, vice president; William Hargest, secretary and treasurer John O'Leary, international board member.

Revision of the constitution to the extent of limiting the appointive powers of the officers was also expected to be discussed and acted upon.

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America have declared that this convention which is called by "The emergency committee of 100" of which Louis Carboni of Bentleyville is head, can have no other significance than to demonstrate that the movement is an attempt to disrupt the coal miner's union.

Yesterday, Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Fagan addressed a mass meeting at Arnold City. In Harmarville, Thomas Robertson and Frank Hefferly, organizer in the Allegheny valley, made addresses.

Miners Ordered To Stop Singing By Injunction

Attorneys For United Mine Workers May Appeal Granting Of Peculiar Injunction

(International News Service)

INDIANA, Pa., May 28.—With the conclusion of the hearing of the so-called singing injunction granted by Indiana county court to the Clearfield Bituminous Coal corporation against striking miners at Rossiter, attorneys for the coal corporation and counsel for the United Mine Workers of America, representing the strikers, today had nine more days in which to file further legal action in connection with the hearing. Judge J. N. Langham of Indiana county court, gave the attorneys until June 6 to file additional data.

The injunction, in addition to prohibiting picketing, ruled against singing within the hearing of the miners because, according to the Clearfield corporation, the singing had a demoralizing effect upon its workers.

National attention was focused upon the case when the senatorial committee investigating the bituminous strike, condemned the injunction and joined with the union strikers in singing songs in the yard of the Magyar Presbyterian church.

Red Cross Volunteer Life Saving Corps Is Planned; To Protect Swimming Holes

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Life Saving Committee of the local Chapter of the American Red Cross was held in the Chapter's office, 201 Temple Bldg., recently at which time organization for the coming season was effected, and plans for Life Saving activities in the county discussed.

Jack Hulme, Director of Physical Education at Westminster College was elected chairman, and Pat Dempsey, local Chapter Secretary, will serve in that capacity ex-officio.

In addition to the Chairman and Secretary the following were chosen on the Executive Committee: Jack Herbert, Jack Geasa, Instructor at Ben Franklin Jr. High; Mrs. Margaret Robinson, Instructor at Municipal Beach, McCleary Ave.; Miss Gertrude Gillespie, Instructor at North St. Jr. High; Paul Berry; Johnny Kraft; and Charles Gillium.

All members of the Executive Committee are required to be qualified Life Saving Examiners, elected by National Headquarters; a card being issued annually to these who so qualify. Other members of the committee are Alec Samuels, 1020 S. Mill St.; David Wallace and Wallace Maxwell, New Wilmington; and Ray Nolte, 707 Cumberland Ave. Additions will be made to this committee as plans are further developed.

The purpose of the corps is to supervise swimming holes and places in the City and County which are not officially supervised; to provide apparatus necessary in this work; to instruct beginners, and conduct examinations for those eligible to take the Junior and Senior Life Saving tests. It will also cooperate in any way possible with swimming places where regularly paid Life Guards are employed.

Some Of Swimming Holes

A few of the holes and other unprotected places known to exist are as follows: Black Hole located on Shenango River near Tin Mill, Franklin Hole about 200 yards below Black Hole, at the bridge, Red Hole, back of Greer Mill, Leach Hole, under old Mahoning bridge, Stoney Hole, near P. & L. E. Freight Yards, Three Legs, near Shenango Tin Mill, Old Canal back of Rubber Works, near B. R. & P. R. R., Old Covered Bridge, Mahoningtown, Blue Bell, Big Run, Big Run near old Cascade Ball Park, Hobble Hole, on Big Run between Jefferson and Moravia streets, Horse Fly, on Neshannock above Second Dam at old Quarry, Old Quarry, near Stand Pipe, top of Chestnut street, Neshannock Bridge, S. Jefferson street, Harbor Bridge and Nashua. There are no doubt others, and the Committee would appreciate information concerning their location, so that none will be missed

The Corps will be formed primarily of those who have passed the Junior and Senior Life Saving Tests in the local schools, a record of whom is on file in the Red Cross office. It is proposed to send a circular letter to all those of record explaining the purpose of the Corps, and urging them to register at once so that proper organization can be effected without unnecessary delay. Registration is also desired of those who are interested in this work, and this can be done by coming to the local office at 201 Temple Bldg., (Old Masonic Bldg.,) North street between N. Mercer and N. Mill streets. As soon as a sufficient number of names have been registered, a meeting will be called to effect organization and apply for Charter.

The local office is open between the hours of 9 and 12 in the A. M. and 1:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon except Saturday afternoon. For the benefit of those however, who may not be able to come during those hours, a 'phone call to the Secretary at 2697 will insure being placed on the list.

MODELING $1,000 COSTUMES

Velvet evening cloak, ermine collar and cuffs, shown by mannequin.

Ensemble effect must be perfect when creations are displayed

NEW YORK—In New York's most exclusive Houses of Dress, beautiful mannequins "model," for fashionable customers, costumes designed by the great couturiers. In "modeling," every detail of the effect must always be perfect. Underthings and hosiery, for instance, must always be beautifully new-looking.

To keep these sheer silk and chiffon things like new, New York's greatest dressmakers—Hickson, Tappé, Frances Clyne, Bergdorf-Goodman, Hattie Carnegie, Stein and Blaine, Bruck-Weiss, Jay-Thorpe, Kurzman, Milgrim—all insist upon Lux for their mannequins' lingerie. They have found that Lux cleansing keeps this lovely lingerie and hosiery new-looking twice as long as other methods.

Malta Degree Given Large Group Of Men

Commanderies Of Several Surrounding Cities Are Represented

There was a large gathering of Knights of Malta, not only of this city but of surrounding cities and towns, at Malta hall, 349½ East Washington street, to witness the exemplification of the Red Cross degree on a large class of candidates on Saturday. Past Commander Ralph W. Emery presided at the council meeting. Large numbers of members of the Knights of Malta from Beaver Falls, Ellwood City, Sharon and other commanderies in the district were in attendance. The degree team of Bethlehem Commandery of this city was given a great deal of praise for the manner in which it presented the degree that was conferred.

Liver Doesn't Hurt but Watch Out

The dangerous thing about liver trouble is that it may be present and not recognized as such! No pain probably in the vicinity of the liver, but mysterious sick headaches, dizzy spells, kidney disturbances and probably heart palpitation and high blood pressure.

No organ will bear closer watching than the liver. It's the liver's important job to keep the blood clean of the poisons formed in food waste. Let the liver become sluggish, as it frequently does under the strain of modern living, and the whole system becomes toxic, which weakens stomach, kidneys and heart.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal, active functioning. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Florence Knapp Seriously Ill

Convicted Former New York State Woman Secretary Suffers Nervous Collapse

WILL NOT RECEIVE SENTENCE AT PRESENT

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., May 28. — Faced with a prison sentence, former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp today was confined to bed at the Teneyck Hotel in a serious condition.

The first woman ever elected to high office in New York was convicted Saturday night by a supreme court jury of stealing census money.

Because of her extreme nervous condition Mrs. Knapp will not be sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan until Sept. 4.

Attended by two physicians and a trained nurse, Mrs. Knapp today was described by friends as in a state of complete nervous collapse. Only her relatives and most intimate friends are permitted in her room and they have been warned not to remain longer than a few minutes.

As soon as Mrs. Knapp is sufficiently recovered Justice Callaghan will impose a prison sentence, he announced. She will be removed to a sanitarium, her friends indicated. It was said, however, that she probably would be confined to her bed for a greater part of the present week.

Although Mrs. Knapp's iron nerve remained with her when she sat in court and heard the jury pronounce her guilty, it failed her completely when she returned to her room. Weeping and crying hysterically, the woman who once was mentioned as a possible candidate on the Republican ticket for lieutenant governor, gave way completely to her feelings when she walked into her room. She was quickly put to bed by friends and her physicians and nurse summoned.

East Brook High Baccalaureate

Rev. S. B. Copeland Preaches Sermon For Graduating Class

Baccalaureate services for the graduating class of the East Brook high school were conducted in the high school auditorium on Sunday evening, Rev. S. B. Copeland, pastor of the Third U. P. church, preaching the sermon.

The theme of the sermon was "Trophies of Youth as Weapons of Age." Rev. Copeland based his sermon on I Samuel 21:8, 9. He told how David found the sword of Goliath with the priest at a time when it was much needed. Four trophies of youth that are valuable as weapons when we become older were given as a strong body, a well trained mind, a good moral character and a soul dedicated to God.

The scripture lesson of the evening was read from Proverbs 4:1-18. Rev. Ralph I. McConnell assisted in the services. Music was furnished by a chorus of high school students under the direction of Miss Betty Houston.

Mercer County Farmer Will Be Paid $5,000 For Burning Of Barn

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.— Samuel F. Tait of Coolspring Township, Mercer County, Pa., will receive $5,000 on account of damages done to his barn and crops when L. W. Bertaud, United States air mail pilot, dropped a flare on his farm, if the Senate passes a bill just passed by the House of Representatives.

A transcontinental air mail plane was forced to descend at Mercer at 2 a. m. on the morning of December 4, 1926. Because of poor visibility, the pilot released a flare from his plane, which was carried by the wind, finally dropping on Mr. Tait's barn, setting it on fire, and destroying the barn and its contents.

The bill as originally introduced by Representative Thomas C. Cochran of Mercer provided for the payment of $8,226 to Mr. Tait, but the Committee of Claims reduced the amount to $5,000.

The bill now goes to the Senate for action.

RHEUMATISM IS GONE; HE FEELS LIKE NEW MAN

Painter Claims He Used Famous Ten Herbs With Amazing Results

Glowing reports, in great numbers, are being received from men and women in this city and surrounding towns and countryside who have given the famous natural medicine, Ten Herbs, a fair trial and have thereby been freed of all their health troubles. Statements have been made by persons of all stations in live, all praising Ten Herbs, because of their deliverance from suffering caused by sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys, or bowels. Some of these men and women are so enthusiastic about Ten Herbs, and so grateful for the benefits bestowed on them, that they volunteer to tell the public about the unusual merits of this great natural medicine.

MR. A. J. GILBERT

"Ten Herbs gave me amazing results—it drove all rheumatic pains and stiffness out of my body," was the statement of Mr. A. J. Gilbert, painter, living at 1932 Morris Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this popular preparation. "For five weeks I was confined in a hospital with inflammatory rheumatism; and, after being discharged, my condition became worse. I was getting weaker all the time, and could hardly walk.

"On the advice of friends, I began using Ten Herbs. It gave me complete relief from rheumatism, and increased my strength. My appetite has improved, and food digests better than it used to. My kidneys have been put in fine condition; and, in every way, I am feeling like a new man. It gives me pleasure to recommend Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Editor Sues Ohio Justice

LANCASTER, O., May 28.—A petition asking $1,000 damages for alleged false arrest was filed in Common Pleas court here Saturday by William P. Lewis, news editor of the Lancaster Gazette, against Edward W. Hoerstler, local justice of the peace.

The suit is the result of the arrest Thursday of Lewis at the instigation of Boarstler, who charged Lewis with contempt of court in connection with an editorial published in the Gazette criticizing a sentence pronounced by Boestler in an assault case.

Lewis was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $20, but the sentence was revoked on error by Common Pleas Judge Shell, who said Boestler lacked jurisdiction and had "lost his judicial temper" in the matter. Lewis spent two hours in jail before he obtained his release.

Hundreds Attend Baccalaureate Here

Liberty Theatre Crowded With Friends And Relatives Of 1928 Graduates

ELLWOOD CITY, May 28.—The baccalaureate service for this year's 99 graduates of Ellwood City high school attracted hundreds of friends and relatives of the class Sunday evening in the Liberty theater. The Seniors marched in in a body robed in the customary caps and gowns. They assembled in the front rows reserved for them.

The program opened with the "Stony Point" march by the high school orchestra, directed by Prof. O. E. Bartel.

Rev. R. H. Little of the Methodist church pronounced the invocation. Rev. John King of the Bell Memorial church read the Scripture and Rev. C. W. Macgeorge, late pastor of the church, gave the prayer. The music was furnished beautifully by the high school chorus, who sang "The Lord Is My Light".

Rev. W. E. Minteer of the United Presbyterian church was selected by the class to deliver the sermon, and he chose as his subject "The Man". His message was most interesting to the young people just starting out on their life missions, and he gave them many sage bits of advice, garnered by his experiences in the pulpit and out of it.

The service concluded with the assemblage singing "Hymn of Our Fathers" and a benediction pronounced by Rev. C. G. Huffer of the Christian church, after which the largest graduating class of Ellwood City high filed out, two by two.

Among the interesting delegates at the last G. A. R. encampment at Long Beach was Mrs. Anna Cloud, who regaled the assembly with proof of her skill at a drummer. Congress Plans To End Session Late Tomorrow

Start Today Winding Of Legislation To Get Ready For Adjournment Tuesday

PRESENT SESSION HAS BEEN ACTIVE

Proponents Of Boulder Dam Bill Register Protests; Seek Enactment

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 28.—With the first of the presidential conventions but two weeks away, the Seventieth Congress today began winding up its legislative program in order to adjourn its first session at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A battery of protests were fired at the adjournment maneuver by senate advocates of the famous Boulder Dam bill, aided by proponents of Federal Good Roads legislation and the "Big Navy" bill. They demanded that congress remain in session all week to break the desperate filibuster against the Boulder Dam bill, which has blocked action on it for the last three weeks.

Administration leaders, however, convinced that the filibuster would prevent final action on the bill whether congress remained here another day or another week, were determined to jam through the adjournment resolution. Under a ruling by Vice-President Dawes, the resolution cannot be debated and administration leaders announced they had sufficient votes to insure its adoption. The house already has adopted the resolution.

Busy Session

When the gavels of Dawes and Speaker Longworth sound the hour of departure, one of the busiest sessions since the war will have ended. Five great legislative achievements stood to the credit of congress in its five-month session.

They were the enactment of a Mississippi River Flood Control bill; the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill, which died when the senate sustained President Coolidge's veto; a $223,000,000 tax reduction bill; the Jones Merchant Marine bill, intended to keep the American flag flying upon the seas, and the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, under which the government will develop the great Alabama project as an electrical project and fertilizer-experimental station.

The congress also enacted the Tyson-Fitzgerald Emergency Army Officers' Retirement bill, and the Mississippi Barge bill, allowing $10,000,000 additional capital to the government operating corporation to extend its service up the tributaries of the Mississippi and Warrior rivers. Thousands of lesser important bills were also enacted.

Many Inquiries

The senate achieved its customary record of investigations, there was a new chapter of the Teapot Dome inquiry in the revelation of the mysterious Continental Trading Company's Liberty Bond operations. These revelations, aside from their political aspects brought the government $2,000,000 in delinquent taxes at a cost of but $14,000. There were a coal inquiry and a presidential campaign fund investigation among many others.

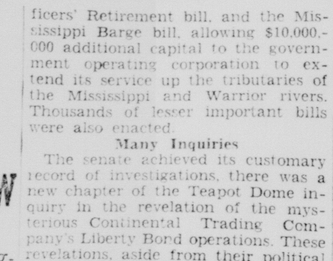

Two senatorial contests were acted upon with Frank L. Smith (R) of Illinois, being barred for excessive expenditures in his 1926 primary. William S. Vare, (R) of Penna., was denied his oath and he has stood at the door of the senate ever since, pending a final decision in his case. Compared to other sessions, the Seventieth Congress probably was as busy as any since the war.

The Boulder Dam advocates, however, were unsatisfied. Led by Senator Hiram W. Johnson (R) of California, they demanded that the senate vote on the bill for controlling the flood waters in the Colorado river. Johnson sponsored two amendments to the adjournment resolution, one to keep congress here until June 5, the other to postpone adjournment until next Saturday. Administration leaders urged him to be content with the enactment of his bill by the house and declared they would defeat any effort to postpone the adjournment beyond Tuesday.

School Boards Must Elect Treasurers

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling draws attention to the fact that all school boards must elect a treasurer during the month of May in order to get the state appropriation. The superintendent sent out notices to school boards some time ago, but it is believed that many of them have not elected a treasurer.

Superintendent Syling is also sending out blanks for annual financial reports from school boards. These must be made out ,showing the receipts and expenditures for the past year.

Career Or Husband?

Question Drives Co-ed To Taking Of Mysterious Poison; Then Answer Comes As She Battles For Life

MISS HELEN B. OWENS

By IONE QUINBY
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

CHICAGO, May 28.—What are the visions that dance before the eyes of a would-be suicide, who living sufficiently long after the administration of a slow-working- deadly poison, sees life once more in all its glory and desires to live?

"Beautiful life . . . sunshine . . . love," are the words whispered over and over by Miss Helen B. Owens, University of Chicago medical co-ed, and daughter of Prof. Frederick Owens of State College, Pa., who in a fit of despondency because she was unable to choose between a career and marriage, mixed a potion of mysterious acid and drank it.

Slowly Working Poison.

Lingering on, as the poison slowly worked, the brilliant co-ed fell in love again with this world; brighter visions of life seemed to pierce the death veil that hovered over her.

Through her hospital window the sunshine filtered in, courting her with its warm rays. In the hospital yard a bird warbled. Across the corridor came the cry of a week-old baby.

Parental love and the love of the man she wanted to marry joined forces in her visions. She was told that she and her lover could marry now and wedge a career in, too.

Desired Career and Home.

Helen, until a short time ago, had what psychologists might have called dual complexes. She desired equally to have a career and to marry the man she loved, and keep his home. Her parents insisted she could not successfully do both, at present. They begged her to wait two years and then decide. Youth, impatient, likes to decide at once; Helen, therefore, in a despondent mood mixed the poison and drank it.

Then she desired as ardently to live, and her father and her lover, John Mayer, an engineer for the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, Pittsburgh, was willing to concede any wish, and to lend their minds to helping her decide how to adjust her life.

Kept alive through a series of blood transfusions, submitted by groups of fellow students, Helen began making a spectacular and valiant fight, then, to live.

MENU HINT

Here's a new meat recipe, to me at least. More and more cooks are combining meat with pineapple, of serving that delectable fruit with meat. Try this out—Chinese chicken. It would make an especially good dish for luncheon or Sunday supper.

Chinese Chicken Toast
Pea Salad
Tea Squares with Butter Frosting
Coffee

Today's Recipes

Chinese Chicken — Cook one cup drained crushed pineapple for a few moments in four tablespoons hot butter. Add six tablespoons flour and blend smoothly. Add one and one-half cups chicken stock and season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir into boiling and thickened; then add three cups diced chicken meat. When very hot, pour on platter garnished with toast. Serve hot.

Tea Squares — Cut fresh sponge cake into squares and cover the top with butter frosting. Sprinkle with browned almonds.

Butter Frosting—One-half cup butter, one and one-half cups confectioners sugar, two egg yolks, one-half cup almonds. Cream the butter, add the sugar and the egg yolk. Spread on the cake when ready to use. Blanch the almonds, bake in a moderate oven until light brown. Cut in pieces and sprinkle on the frosting.

Old Recipe

One of our readers, Mrs. A. Ebert of Milwaukee, sends in the following recipe which, she writes, has been in use in her family for years. "We use it for potatoes, boiled and raw cabbage, beans, lettuce, and even cucumbers," she writes, "and I hope you will also like it. Cut bacon in cubes and fry until brown. Add one tablespoon sugar, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup water and a little salt. Let this cool and add a well beaten egg. I always add an onion to my other ingredients, except boiled cabbage."

Meeting At Noon Gives Big Boost To Membership Of Association

CAMPAIGN ENDS TUESDAY NIGHT

With the success of the membership campaign practically assured 306 new members in the New Castle Civic Music association were reported by 11 team captains at a luncheon meeting of officials and workers for the organization which took place at noon today in the Crystal ball room of The Castleton. With the members already secured and reported at campaign headquarters, well over 500 people have become members of the new association.

Several of the team captains failed to report at this noon's meeting and it is expected that their reports will place the number of memberships well over the minimum.

"Now we are but half through" stated the Rev. J. C. Williamson, general chairman of the campaign. "We still have a few more hours in which to work and they are vital hours. With out minimum assured now we must work for more and better concerts."

Following the Rev. Williamson's speech, Mrs. Lola VerBryck, chairman of the transportation committee of the Fon Du Lac, Wisconsin association told of the success of the idea in her city, and said that last year, she attended ten concerts on her membership card, three of which were in her own city, and seven in neighboring towns.

Following is a list of the team captains, and the memberships which they reported at today's meeting:

Dolores Del Rio Says Maid Had No Part In Plot To Abduct Her And Secure Ransom

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—Dolores Del Rio, Mexican motion picture star, was on record today as completely exonerating Mrs. Rose Ayala, a former maid in her household, of any complicity in the purported kidnaping and theft plot recently uncovered by police here.

In a statement issued by Miss Del Rio, Mrs. Ayala is declared to be clear of any suspicion in connection with the alleged plot, which centered about the "confession" of Gustavo Carilto, characterized by authorities as a "hoax". The statement of Carilto to the police, later discredited, involved a scheme to abduct the Mexican actress, hold her for ransom and rob her of a $15,000 diamond ring.

Mrs. Esther Wilson Pleads Not Guilty On Shooting Charge

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 28.—After having been subjected to a search for a pistol, Mrs. Esther Evans Deforest Wilson, New York and Washington society woman and big game hunter, pleaded not guilty today when arraigned in general sessions on an indictment charging assault in the first and second degree.

Mrs. Wilson is charged with shooting her estranged husband, Dallet H. Wilson, in his law office on March 29 last.

The search to which she was subjected before entering the court room today resulted from an anonymous communication to court attendants that she was carrying a pistol. None was found on her, however.

Judge Levine denied a motion for a reduction in Mrs. Wilson's bail from $10,000 to $5,000.

A large crowd, chiefly women, sought entrance to the court room and lined the corridors to see Mrs. Wilson pass in and out.

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 28.—Five men of the super-speed boat Humpe, of Philadelphia, sunk at sea of Nantucket, face arraignment today on liquor smuggling charges following a rescue from the flaming Humpe by the crew of the United States coats guard cutter Paulding. At the time of the rescue the sea about the craft was covered with burning gasoline from the Humpe and the men were in a dory. When all had been rescued, the Paulding fired a shot sinking the Humpe, which had burst into flames during a pursuit by the Paulding.

William C. Martin of Mineola, L. I. and Albert White of Belfast, Maine, were injured in an explosion on the Humpe. They were treated at naval hospital here. Other prisoners from the super-speed boat were Ernest Brandt of Gloucester; John Wilson of Mineola and John Silver of Queens, L. I.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Presidential Campaign Of 1876

IN THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1876, SOME OF THE REPUBLICANS URGED GENERAL GRANT TO RUN FOR A THIRD TERM, BUT HE DECLINED TO DO SO UNLESS EXPEDIENCY DEMANDED IT. THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES PASSED A RESOLUTION AGAINST SUCH A NOMINATION, DECLARING IT WOULD BE "UNWISE, UNPATRIOTIC, AND FRAUGHT WITH PERIL TO OUR FREE INSTITUTIONS."

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION, MEETING IN CINCINNATI, ADOPTED A PLATFORM DEMANDING THE SPEEDY RESUMPTION OF SPECIE PAYMENT, AND NOMINATED RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, THE GOVERNOR OF OHIO, FOR PRESIDENT AND WILLIAM A. WHEELER, OF NEW YORK, FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

THE DEMOCRATS CAME OUT FOR REFORM AND SPECIE PAYMENT. FOR PRESIDENT THEY NOMINATED GOV. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, OF NEW YORK, WHO HAD WON FAME FOR BREAKING UP THE DISHONEST POLITICAL RING OF "BOSS" TWEED.

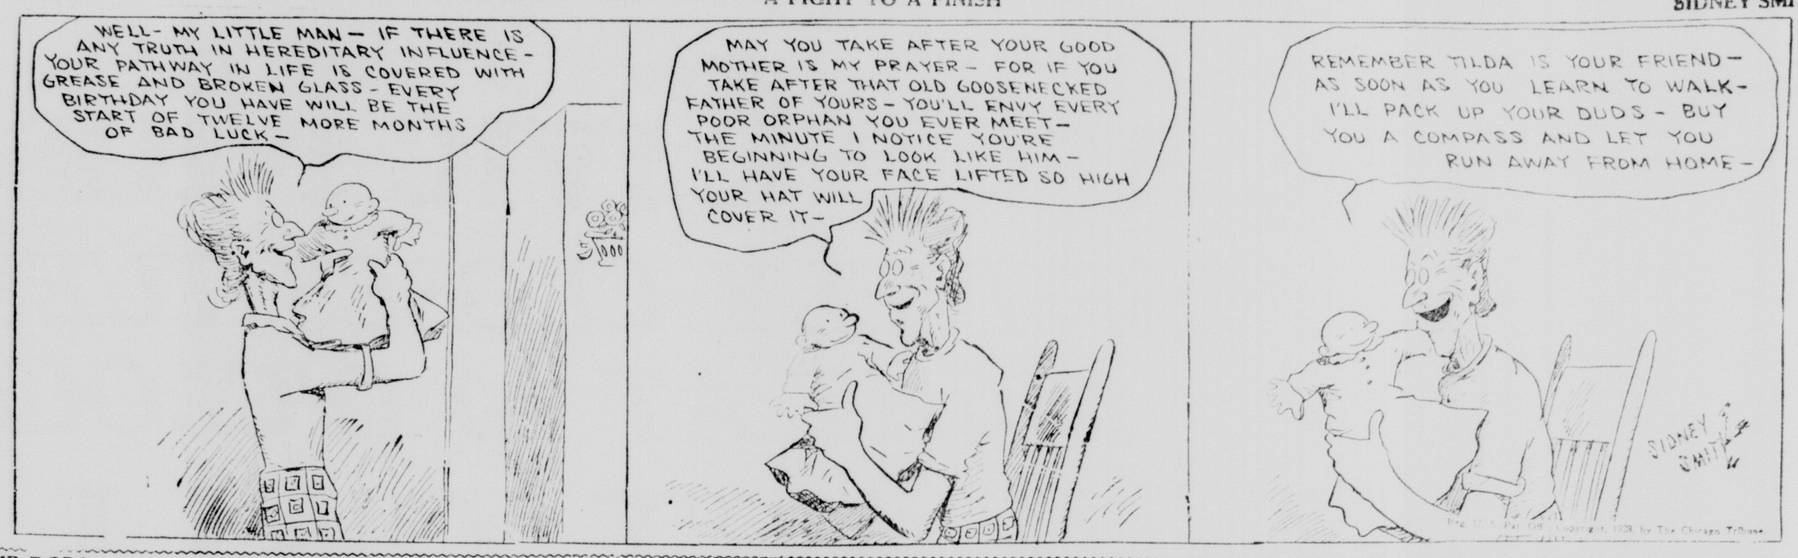

THE GROWING DEMAND FOR REFORM OF LABOR CONDITIONS AND RELIEF OF THE DISTRESS CAUSED BY THE FINANCIAL DEPRESSION LED TO THE APPEARANCE OF THE "GREENBACK" PARTY IT DEMANDED THAT THE GOVERNMENT PAPER CURRENCY BE MADE LEGAL TENDER FOR THE PAYMENT OF ALL DEBTS, AND NOMINATED PETER COOPER, THE NEW YORK PHILANTHROPIST, FOR PRESIDENT.

TOMORROW—THE CLOSE OF GRANT'S CAREER.

New Castle Civic Music Week

POSITIVELY CLOSES TUESDAY NIGHT AT 10 O'CLOCK

LAST CALL

Tomorrow—Tuesday Night

The work now going on to organize a unit of the National Civic Music Association of America in New Castle is worthy of the most careful consideration and cordial support of the good people of our city and community, who believe in the finer and better things of life. We cannot build a city by occupying all our time in chasing dollars, but must give a certain amount of attention to the cultural side of life if we would have our children educated as they should be.

There is nothing that tends to more rapidly develop the all-around citizen and a community than good music, which creates within one a desire for better things. This accounts for the great hold which the phonograph and later the radio secured upon the average family. But the object of the New Castle Civic Music Association is entirely different. Its plan is to bring the very finest concerts presented by the foremost artists from the operatic and concert stage to New Castle and community each season and thus give our people an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the very best in music.

At 10 O'clock the Campaign for Members Closes---Have You Secured Your Membership?

Civic Music Association

Headquarters 114 North Mercer Street

5808—5809—Special Telephones—5808—5809

Tuesday night at 10 o'clock the membership drive for members in the New Castle Civic Music Association closes. After that hour you will not be able to secure membership, nor attend musical numbers to be given at a later date. (Several hundred memberships signed up Saturday night). More than 130 leading cities, to date, of the Central and Southern States use this successful plan. The membership fee of $5.00 yearly for adults, covers all your expense. For this sum you are guaranteed a minimum of three musical numbers during the year by leading artists of the world. Admission to these concerts is by membership card only—no single admission sold, or seats reserved. Your membership card is your only pass to all concerts in New Castle or any C. M. A. concert in the U. S. A., without extra cost, providing seating capacity is not sold. Don't wait a single hour longer—pay for your membership before the dead line is reached. It is your only assurance that you will have the opportunity to hear the wonderful concerts which will be brought to New Castle by this association.

There are no guarantors of the Civic Music Association. The membership dues finance all concerts and no individual tickets are sold for any concert, which are for members only. No profit can be derived and no loss can be sustained under this plan. The more members secured during this campaign means the more or greater concerts to be presented, as all of the money is expended for the artists' program.

The National Organization receives its pay from the artists on a percentage basis, and not from the local association.

Through an educational system of building musical appreciation, a pamphlet containing a human interest story on every number presented on each program is mailed to every member of the association several days prior to each concert, so that one does not have to have a technical education to enjoy good music. In this way people will have an opportunity to hear world-famed artists who otherwise would have been denied this great privilege.

Delighted to enthusiastically endorse Civic Music Association plan. We had most satisfactory year in history of Beethoven Club, which is 35 years old, under this successful plan. Artists secured season 1926, also '26 and '27—'27 and '28 and '28 and '29 altogther satisfactory. Yours is a great plan, congratulations.

MRS. J. F. HILL, President,
Memphis, Tennessee, Civic Music Association.

Chattanooga Music Club delighted with Civic Music Association plan in our fourth season. Would not go back to old uncertain way of financing concert, artists of highest grade. Miss Harshbarger, originator of this plan and her associates have very warm place in our hearts, with their square dealing.

New Castle Civic Music Week

POSITIVELY CLOSES TUESDAY NIGHT AT 10 O'CLOCK

The telegrams and letters appearing on this page endorsing the Civic Music Association's successful plan were received on May 18th, by Herbert Peairs, president of the New Castle Civic Music Association

Milwaukee, Wis.,
May 16, 1928.

Mr. Herbert Peairs, Mgr.,
Scottish Rite Cathedral Ass'n.,
New Castle, Penna.

Dear Mr. Peairs:—

Your telegram regarding the Civic Concert Service Inc., of Chicago addressed to Mr. Victor Brown reached us here in his absence. Mr. Brown is in Philadelphia and will not return before sometime next week, so I am sending your telegram on to him by mail, suggesting that he get in touch with you if possible.

Perhaps, if you will permit me to say a word or two, I may assist you in reaching a decision. Personally, I feel that the relationship of the Milwaukee Association with the Civic Concert Service, Inc., Chicago, has been very very satisfactory indeed, and the service given by the Chicago organization and the cooperation extended by them has made it possible to give Milwaukee a series of splendid concerts. All of the members of the local association are delighted with the programs that have been furnished and they look forward to another year with great expectancy. In fact, the local association, which has a limited membership, is being besieged constantly for membership by many who do not enjoy the privilege.

We are sure that Mr. Brown will write you direct from Philadelphia, but in the event that we should be unable to reach him in time, the information we have given may be of some assistance to you.

Yours truly,
FRANK LUICK,
Vice Pres., Milwaukee, Wis., C. M. A.

Aurora, Illinois,

Herbert Peairs, Esq.,
Scottish Rite Catherdral Ass'n.,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Mr. Peairs:—

Replying to your wire of today regarding the Civic Music Association, I am very pleased to give these people a clean bill of health from every angle. We consider they know their business and are high grade in their relations with the local people and also have a basic idea which is exceptionally sound and which the public take to kindly and quickly.

Our own membership campaign, which was something about a year ago, went over in one and a half days to the capacity of our auditorium which is 1100. The concerts which we put on this past winter were very high grade. Early this spring we had our second membership campaign and renewal week, with capacity again subscribed and have already contracted for our talent this coming season.

It is a very clever idea and, as stated, the public seems to take to it readily.

Very truly yours,
H. S. GREENE,
Pres., Aurora, Ill., C. M. A.

Mr. Herbert Peairs,

My Dear Sir:—

After a year's tryout with the Civic Music Association idea we are thoroughly convinced that it is the best plan so far advanced to secure good music, creditable artists at a reasonable price. Our dealings with the Civic Concert Service, Inc., of Chicago has been altogether gratifying. We are delighted with them and Miss Harshbarger's great plan.

Such expressions as this have been addressed to me from members: "Doctor, this one concert is worth the price of our membership card."

You will not make any mistake in organizing with this successful plan under the direction of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., Chicago, originators of this civic music plan.

Yours for better music,
DR. W. C. HORTON,
Secretary, Raleigh, N. C., C. M. A.

Dear Sir:—

Your telegram of the 15th, regarding the Civic Concert Service of Chicago received. In reply would state that to my way of thinking there is no other organization in America at the present time that gives such satisfactory and reliable service.

I am sure that if you organize in your city that you will find everything satisfactory not only in the way of artists but also in business dealings. I feel that you could not attach yourselves to a better organization that will bring to your city such reliable artists and contribute so much to the cultural life of your community.

With best wishes to you, I am,

Very truly yours,
REV. GEORGE PHILLIP SHERIDAN, D. D.,
Pres., Rochester, Minn., C. M. A.

Jackson, Michigan,
May 16, 1928.

Mr. Herbert Peairs,
Mgr., Scottish Rite Cathedral Ass'n.,
New Castle, Penna.

My Dear Mr. Peairs:—

In response to your telegram of inquiry regarding the Civic Music Association idea as sponsored by the Civic Concert Service, Inc., of Chicago, permit me to state that our local association was formed six years ago last April with a membership of over 1200. The plan is ideal in that it permits cities where concert courses have been failures in the past, to function on a businesslike and civic basis, greatly assisting in fostering a community spirit which makes other things possible of exploitation which are of general educational interest to the community. The plan as you will know is selt supporting in that it permits just so much an incumberance for a season in proportion to the membership obtained, and maintained each year through your membership drive. It has proved most satisfactory and successful from not only the financial but also the artistic standpoint. Our 1928 membership week was held the week of April 23, at which time we secured over two hundred additional new members which will suffice to increase our membership quota to a splendid working basis. Our community is well sold on the plan as it has worked out most successfully here.

Our relations with the Civic Concert Service Inc., through their representative, Mr. French and Miss Harshbarger, have at all times been most agreeable and satisfactory. They have always backed us up at all times. We have always been treated most courteously and have never yet had an occasion to question their sincerity or business deals with us. It indeed gives me the greatest pleasure to endorse them and their plan. I am most enthusiastic over the idea and assure you that you can make no mistake in adopting the plan. Success to you.

Most sincerely yours,
H. A. HIRSCHMAN,
President, Jackson, Mich., C. M. A.

MORLEY BLANKS CLEVELAND TEAM, 3-0

Plays Important Role In Victory

Only 29 Batters Face Right-Hander, Who Holds Cleveland To Four Hits; Scores Run, Hits Double, Earns Putout, Has Five Assists, Fans Six, Passes One And Outpitches Telanik; Shannon Poles Three Hits Out Of Four Times At Bat; B. Hogan Gets Two Hits Of Cleveland's Four; New Castle Team Needs Better Support Than It Is Receiving Here

By ED. FRITZ

New Castle blanked Cleveland 3-0 Saturday afternoon at Centennial field, retained first place in the O & P circuit, due to superb pitching by Morley, opportune hits by teammates and fast fielding.

Only twenty-nine batters faced the big right hander, who scored a run, poled a double, hit a sacrifice, garnered a putout made five assists, two of which were earned in double plays. He held Cleveland to four hits, struck out six batters, passed only one and easily outhurled Telanik. Shannon also earned a place in the spotlight by poling three hits out of four times at bat which isn't a poor day's work for any ball player.

In chronicling the tilt it can truthfully be said that the New Castle-Cleveland tilt was a major league contest on a minor league field. New Castle played bang-up ball at every opportunity and when the "old punch" was needed Morley's teammates came along with a willow and they used it for the purpose for which it was lathed. Not one error was made by the Centennials and the catchers checked base stealing. Cleveland players didn't get a chance to get acquainted with third base and in seven of the nine innings Cleveland had at bat only three handled the club. In the seventh Morley retired the side on three pitched balls.

Classy Fielding

McCoy took twelve throws at first without a misplay and Shannon covered second like a major league. He tried for everything and had five assists in addition to two putouts and it was obvious that every Centennial was on his toes, except Sank McCullough who fell asleep at Massillon Friday night and missed the bus for New Castle which explains why the "home town boy" was not at third base. Knapic, Geneva college star took Mac's place at the hot bag and doubled in the sixth sending Shannon home. In addition to his twin base blow the college lad had two assists.

Telanik pitched a good game but was touched up eight times. He fanned two and passed three batters. The hits recorded by New Castle fell in territory where players couldn't get near them but in fielding as in the piching the Centennials had it all over Cleveland and if Cleveland is to figure in the titular race, Saturday's showing augurs well for New Castle and Kleinhaus will have to look to his laurels to beat Morley.

Score In Fifth

Neither team scored until the fifth, the hits being two-two when New Castle sent Yoxcheimer to bat. The catcher singled through the box, Morley sacrificed him to second, Hogan walked and Leonard singled through Telanik's berth and Yoxcheimer scored.

Shannon made his second hit of the game in the sixth and with two down Knapic, substituting for Sankey McCullough at third base, doubled to right and the former Geneva star romped home with the second run.

Morley drew an ovation when he went to bat in the seventh and responded with a double as Erze dropped the ball near the foul line after a desperate attempt to spear it. With one down, Morley scored on Leonard's sacrifice fly to Erze in right field.

New Castle had five runners stranded on the paths and Cleveland two. However, in the first and second, double plays by Yoxcheimer to McCoy, Morley to McCoy and Grimes to Shannon to McCoy blocked threatening runners.

In no one inning did more than four batters face Morley and the quartette then got their turns at bat in the second and ninth. In a measure Morley spoiled his own chance of making a record by winning with 27 straight outs.

How It Happened

Johns, Thutt, Heiden and Pocta faced him in the second. He passed Johns, a heavy hitter and got into a hole but took Heiden's short and low fly on a beautiful piece of fielding and doubled Johns at first.

With two down Heiden singled to left field but a moment later Pocta grounded to Knapic who handled the ball easily and with a beautiful throw landed the ball squarely in the hand of McCoy at first.

In the ninth he struck out Erze and Yoxcheimer stepped in front of the plate to take Crawford's fly. B. Hogan lined at Morley who tried for the ball and was able to knock it down but Crawford reached first.

Cleveland thought they had a chance for a score and Kuver, second baseman went to bat. However, Shannon threw him out to McCoy. These innings were the only chapters in which four batters faced Morley.

Weather Inclement

Threatening showers and cool weather had a tendency to keep down the crowd and only three hundred were in the grandstand and bleachers when the umpires, Warner and McCann started to their position.

Rain fell and the players went to their dugouts but ten minutes later Old Sol took the place of J. Pluv' and the game was started with the 300 tried in the blue fans brimming with 'pep.'

The New Castle ball club under the management of George Textor is playing good baseball and has not lost a game yet at Centennial field. Cold weather has apparently had a tendency to keep patronage down.

The team is playing bang-up ball, in fact better baseball than any team that the city has had for years and if the city is to continue in the loop naturally more money will have to roll into the gate.

To date Textor has dropped $1,000 and one thousand simoleons whether they be in silver or bills is no small sum to drop in less than a month but George believes local fans will commence to take interest in the team.

Deserves Patronage

The next game to be played here will be staged against Beaver Falls, Decoration day morning and will start at 10 a. m. The Beaver Falls aggregation is a good ball club and a scrappy team.

It might not be a poor idea for dyed-in-the-wool fans to bring a fan to the game. Baseball is our national sport and should be supported. It is a sport any person can watch and the team should be supported more than it is being supported here.

"Keep It Up, Gang!"

To Honor Memory Of Famous Pitcher

(International News Service)

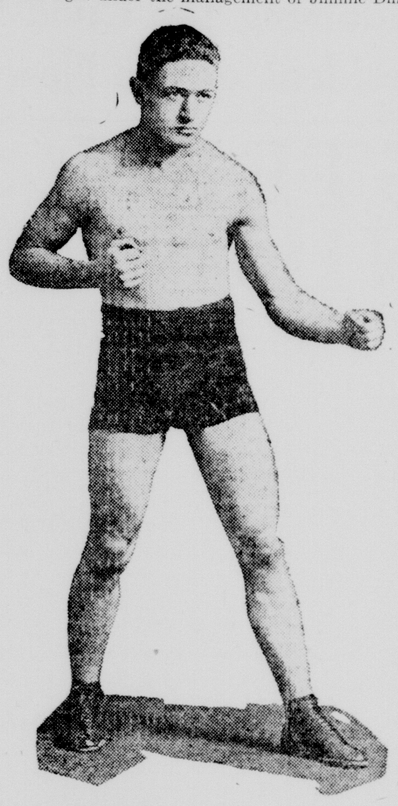

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 28. — The memory of the late Christy Mathewson, famous baseball pitcher, will be honored again this year by the Veterans of Foreign Wars with a giant wreath of poppies, the memorial flower, as a feature in connection with the annual sale of poppies during the week of Memorial Day as a tribute to the soldier dead and to raise relief funds.

The grave of Mathewson at Lewisburg, Pa., will be formally decorated with the wreath on Memorial Day. Brief ceremonies will be held under the auspices of the Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants put in the final poppy in the Mathewson wreath at the invitation of officials of the veterans organization.

Hopes For Quick 'Come-Back'

EDDIE WEYGANT, prominent in the ranks of the featherweights several years ago is preparing for a fresh start in the boxing game, according to his own announcement here a few days ago. According to Weygant he will fight under the management of Jimmie Dime who introduced him to the game. During his days in the ring Eddie milled with the best boxers in pugilism and had a long run of victories. Although he fought more than three score bouts he lost only two by knockouts and both these boys who won were at the very peak of the division. Eddie still retains his ability to box and 'sock' due to every day boxing with Mickie Solomon, a welterweight whom Weygant introduced to boxing and who is going over big, though he is only a youngster in the game. Weygant will be matched by Dime in different cities and it is probable that he will get a chance to show at the Jolly bowl which is being built here. Weygant will train with Heinie and Johnny Slate, lightweight and junior lightweight in the camp of Jimmie Dime and also Mickie Solomon whom Weygant will continue to manage thus holding a unique role in boxing as he will be a fighter under Dime and a manager for Solomon

New Castle High Finishes Fourth In Pitt Carnival

New Castle High Track Team Shows Up Well In Annual Pitt Meet Saturday

With only a handful of athletes entered, the New Castle High track team finished fourth in the annual University of Pittsburgh scholastic meet held at the Pitt Stadium on Saturday afternoon. New Castle had 14 points.

The meet was won by Parkersburg High of West Virginia, with a total of 48 points. The West Virginians placed a man in every event with the exception of two. Parkersburg had a mighty fine team and deserved the honor of first place. Washington High and Steubenville favorites to give Parkersburg a stiff fight failed to show any class whatsoever.

Arthur Craft with a heave of 163 feet 1¾ inches gave New Castle their lone first place. Paul Reider finished third in the 440-yard dash for three points. Clements of New Castle finished fourth in the 880-yard run for two points. Alexander of New Castle finished fourth in the discus and gained two points, and placed fifth in the high hurdles for one point. Craft was fifth in the shot put and gained one point.

Washington finished with 19 points and Monongahela High was third with 16 points.

They now have a five and ten grocery store where you can yet anything from caviar to bacon and it's right in the heart of the theatrical district. The actors probably hope eggs are not on the list.

All Stick Marks Do Not Belong to Babe Ruth---Yet

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

Babe Ruth has yet to hog all the batting honors in baseball. In the matter of lifetime averages, total number of base hits collected, and one or two other angles, Ty Cobb still stands far above the Behemoth of Swat. And in addition to these "all time" records Ruth still has one or two others at which to shoot.

One of these is the matter of batting in runs in a single game.

Harry Rice's achievement in driving in seven runs in one contest for the Detroit Tigers recently brought this phase of the records to the front.

Rice, one of the figures in the mid-winter deal between the Browns and Tigers, laced out a double, a homer and a single in that game, and sent seven runners across the plate with the three blows. As a matter of fact, the seven runs were shoved over in the first four innings, but the total goes into the records as a "game" feat.

The records reveal that Rice's feat, as startling as it was, did not set a record either for the major leagues or for the American league alone. The American league record was established 17 years ago by Roy Hartzell, then playing with the New York Yankees. On July 12, 1911, Hartzell drove in eight runs.

His mark falls four runs below the remarkable record set for the National league—and for the majors to date—by Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals, in sending 12 (count 'em) runners scampering over the plate in one game.

Rice's feat also brings that mid-winter deal into the spotlight. The Tigers got him and Elam Van Gilder, in-and-outer pitcher, in exchange for First Baseman Lu Blue and Heinie Manush. Rice's playing alone makes the deal, to date, a good one for the Tigers. This, however, is fortunate for the Detroit club. Blue's absence is felt, due to the fact that Johnny Neun, young first sacker elevated to his post, has been a complete loss to the club. Bill Sweeney, rookie, has been playing first.

As for the Browns, Blue has been playing good ball at first and Manush well in the field during the startling spurt of the reorganized Browns.

Apparently the reasons assigned by Manager Howley for permitting Rice to move along were well grounded. The general improvement in Rice's playing, attitude toward the game, would indicate this. Rice was not the contented, unburdened player in St. Louis that he is in Detroit.

Archie Compston and Audrey Boomer, the two British golf professionals who trounced Walter Hagen abroad (but not in the British open) are sailing for the United States June 2 for an exhibition tour and to compete in the American open at Chicago, June 21.

The trip ought to be a profitable one for the pair even if it does not bring one of them the title now in possession of Bobby Jones.

They open their American invasion by meeting MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen in a 72-hole match. These matches will bring the invaders a handsome revenue, apart from whatever purses may be offered.

Payne Winner Of Pyle Derby

Salo Is Second In Race Across Continent To New York

PYLE SAYS PRIZES TO BE PAID JUNE 2

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 28.—Despite the bally-hoo, only 3,000 spectators were in Madison Square Garden Saturday evening, watching C. C. Pyle's Bunioneers navigate 120 laps of the Garden's cement track, thereby ending the famous Cross Country marathon, started just eighty six days ago. Andy Payne, Oklahoma farmer, clinched the championship, although by the 20 mile Garden grind he was led by John Salo of Passaic, New Jersey. Payne, as champion, is the winner of the stake of $25,000, while Salo, if he is paid next Saturday, will get $10,000 for second place.

Although there was not much enthusiasm inside the Garden, there was plenty on the sidewalks of New York as Thomas Ellis of Hamilton, Ont., 42 in the race, pushed through a jeering and cheering crowd of some 10,000 people and entered the employes door to the Garden, but was soon lost in the circlings about the track.

Occasionally Salo would drop into second place in the pacings about the track, and Payne would take the lead for a short time.

But when they finished their grind, Pyle's cement pounders, most of whom will get no reward other than satisfaction, were offered cots in the basement of the Garden on which they rested their weary bones.

The runners were paid their nightly $1.50 at the Jersey City slip and wandered off in search of food.

Following is the order in which the runners came through the race, and their prize money, if they succeed in collecting from Pyle next Saturday.

Andy Payne of Oklahoma, $25,000 prize; John Salo of Passaic, $10,000; Phil Granville of Ontario, $5,000; Mike Joyce of Cleveland, $2,500; Giusto Umek of Trieste, Italy, $1,000; William Kerr of Minneapolis $1,000; Louis Perella of Albany, $1,000; Ed. Gardner of Seattle, $1,000; Frank Von Flue of California, $1,000, and John Cronick of Saskatoon, Manitoba, $1,000.

Eleventh in the race and just outside the money is Harry Abramowitz of the Bronx.

URBAN SHOCKER

Urban J. Shocker, New York American pitcher, was born in Detroit, Mich., on November 22, 1892.

Shocker broke into baseball with the Windsor club of the Border League in 1913. He was sold to Ottawa for $600 in 1914 and that club turned Shocker over to the Yanks in 1915 for $750.

Shocker drifted to Toronto in the International League, only to come back to the Yanks for a brief stay in 1917, and then he was turned over to the St. Louis Americans.

The pitcher came back to New York in a trade in 1924. He announced his retirement early this year, but has returned to uniform and again is a playing Yankee.

Shocker pitches and bats right-handed. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds.

The senior Rockefeller refined the oil; let the other one refine the business.

Hick: A ruralite; not to be confused with the hic, which is more frequently urban.

'Ray For Reigh And Ray

By Feg Murray

Saturday, May 19, was a great day for the Rays. Reigh Count, who spells his first name with a little more "high hat", as it were, though it is pronounced the same, galloped his way through the mud at Churchill Downs to win one of the most spectacular Kentucky Derbies ever run. Joie Ray, about a sixth as large as Reigh Count but with a heart just as big, ran 21 times as far to win the annual Long Beach marathon, breaking the record, and accomplishing one of the most dramatic feats in the history of distance running.

About the same time a lack of the sun's rays caused Tex Rickard, long known as the luckiest of promoters, thrice to postpone the Mandell-McLarnin championship fight. Thousands of out of town customers, unable to stay over the week-end, were forced to turn in their tickets and depart, but on the other hand, many who had gone to Louisville to see Reigh Count win were back in time to see Sammy beat up Jimmy on Monday night. The sun's rays do count, eh Tex?

To get back to Ray and Reigh, the one assured himself of a trip to Amsterdam to compete in the historic marathon race, blue ribbon event of the Olympic games; the other is being rushed to New York to take part in the historic Belmont and other big races. Reigh Count won $55,000 and a cup for his owner. Joie Ray won a big cup for himself, with nothing to put in it. Four-legged Reigh, only three years old, could easily defeat two-legged Ray, 30 years old, at a mile, even though Ray is a co-holder of the world's indoor record. Maybe if Joie Ray ate grass, oats, bran and hay, he could run a mile in 1:35 too!

FEG MURRAY SAYS

They both put up a gallant fight through mire and mud and rain; Joie Ray ran with all his might, Reigh Count with all his name.

DAVE BARRY

Dave Barry, made famous by his memorable long count in the seventh round of the Dempsey-Tunney fight last September, is cashing in on his reputation as a counter. A lot of fans who can't get it into their heads why Tunney was allowed to remain on the floor for 14 seconds, more or less, are always ready to give Barry the merry razz the minute he steps into a ring to officiate. Dave doesn't mind it, because it has made him a drawing card. He is in great demand as a referee in Chicago and nearby towns, mostly because his presence gives the fans a chance to exercise their lungs in the game of razzing, which is their right and delight.

Three Contests In Twilight League

A. A. A. Convention At Cincinnati, O.

The twenty-sixth annual convention of the American Automobile association will be held Thursday and Friday, June 28 and 29, at Cincinnati, O., announces Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary of the New Castle Motor club.

It is expected that several members of the local association will be in attendance.

Steady Progress On Improvements

City Projects Are Making Satisfactory Progress Engineer Reports

Steady progress is being made on city projects, according to Municipal Engineer Miller. Work is progressing in Sheridan avenue, South Jefferson street, Garfield avenue and at the fire station.

Driveways are being put in along Sheridan avenue by Woods & Golder. Paving is practically complete.

Concrete will be entirely laid between Long avenue and Big Run in South Jefferson street today by Olsen company. Curb is being set between the bridge and Terrace avenue and hillside brick will be laid on the concrete base within a day or two.

The Olsen company is also progressing on the sewer in Garfield between North Mercer street and Wilmington avenue and the New Castle Double-Wall company is putting in a driveway at the Jefferson street fire station and will lay brick at the intersection of South Mercer and South Jefferson streets.

Restrict Parking For Memorial Day

Plans Of Police To Aid War Veterans' Memorial Service Procession

Chief of Police C. C. Horner stated this morning, that as a result of the request of Fred L. Rentz, that every possible effort would be made to provide for the comfort of the Civil war veterans, on Memorial Day morning during the exercises and parade.

He stated that motorists would be requested to refrain from parking on South Mercer street between Market Way and South street on the East side of Mercer street and in front of the Capitol theatre, in order that the cars of the Civil war veterans and others participating might get up to the theatre. The same request applies to Market Way from Mercer street to Water street.

He will also arrange for space on the west side of North Jefferson street adjoining the Wallace building, where the cars of the Civil war veterans and others in the parade, may park to review the parade on its return from Greenwood cemetery.

Pyle Is Planning 24-Hour Marathon

Andrew Payne, Coast-To-Coast Derby Winner Will Be Greeted By Coolidge

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 28.—C. C. "Cross-Country" Pyle's 55 bunion derbyists who wound up their coast "hop" by foot last Saturday night when they straggled into Madison Square Garden, foot-sore and weary, are mostly still "running" today, either in preparation for the next event of Friday night or enroute to their homes.

Among those who have ceased running for the time being at least were Andrew Payne young Oklahoma farm boy who carried off first honors and the prize of $25,000. He went to Washington where he is to be received by President Coolidge.

On Friday night Pyle will stage a 24-hour grind at the Garden for 50 runners selected from his caravan.

ENGINEERS WILL BE IN PARADE

Members of Company B, 125th Engineers Bn. Mtd, have been issued orders by Captain William R. Walter to be on hand Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock to participate in the Memorial Day parade. Regulation summer wear uniform are required. All men are requested to have their uniforms and general appearance at their best.

Points For The Big Olympic Test

When it comes to swimmers California is one of the states which must be considered. When Californians mention swimmers, they always include Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles club star. Miss Coleman holds the junior national title on the ten-foot spring board and is considered a sure bet for the U. S. Olympic team. Well, if Georgia can swim as well as she looks there isn't any question of her ability in the water.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 28.—The industrial stocks displayed an irregular trend in the early trading today. Profit-taking and "switching" in the motor stocks, produced sharp bulges in a number of the well-known shares while others clumped off a point or two. The coppers were firm, with Anaconda and Kennecott in demand. And the Standard Oils gave a good account of themselves. Rails were inactive, with buying of New York Central a feature. Radio lost 6 points in the first half hour.

The call loan rate remained at 6 per cent.

Chrysler and Studebaker occupied the center of the stage in the popular motor shares, though the stocks moved in opposite directions.

Chrysler sold up 2 points at 81, while Studebaker declined 2½ to 78. Standard Oil of New York and New Jersey advanced about a point in active trading. General Motors was under profit-taking the first hour and lost nearly 2 points.

The return of the five-hour day will permit the professionls a longer period in which to "churn up" the market and to entice outside participation. Stock sales in the first hour today were approximately 900,000 shares.

Kiwanians Give Memorial Program

Expect Large Delegation To District Convention At Pittsburgh

Program of the New Castle Kiwanis club which was given at the Elks Club Monday noon was in charge of the law and order committee with Thomas W. Dickey as chairman.

The program took the nature of a Memorial Day program in which Robert L. Wallace spoke concerning the respect we should have for the day and for the men who gave their life for the preservation of our country. He also stressed the civic pride we should have for our local government and for the state and nation, honoring and respecting all officials.

H. A. Wilkinson spoke on what it means to be a Kiwanian especially in respect to our duty to our country. Music was led by Chester Reynolds with Harry Hammond at the piano.

In the business meeting it was urged to have a delegation of 20 or more Kiwanians attend the district convention at the Fort Pitt Hotel in Pittsburgh on Thursday, May 31 at which Robert White will be one of the speakers.

Baccalaureate Service Conducted For Union High School Sunday

On Sunday evening the baccalaureate service for the graduating class of the Union High school was conducted in the Central Presbyterian church of this city.

The class, attired in cap and gown, marched in as a body, accompanied by their teachers, and occupied seats in the centre of the church. There was a large crowd of spectators in the church for the services.

Special musical numbers by the church choir added to the evening's program, which was a most impressive one.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the class, it being a most interesting and able discourse. A brief outline of the address follows:

"The Master and Scholar"

Text Mal. 2:12.

In our rapid transit from infancy to old age, with all its intermingled sorrow and joy, victory and defeat, perhaps there is no definite period of life so pleasant and joyous as our grand old school days. Hard problems, severe reprimands only endear their memory and sweeten their recollection.

Life A School

It is beautiful also to think of one's whole career as a great school in which God is the teacher and the wide, wide world as the house of instruction. Some one has splendidly said "Our world is a college, events are teachers, happiness is the graduation point, character is the diploma God gives to man." We are all learners or teachers. The periods of life are its terms, infancy, youth, manhood, age have their appropriate lessons. Riches and poverty, gayety and sorrow, marriages and funerals, the ties of life bound or broken, fit or fortunate, painful or peaceful are all lessons.

Possibilities of Youth

In the balmy days of youth when our paths are filled with songs and shoutings and the whole world is strange and unfamiliar, novel and exciting, we are apt to forget God as our Creator and that in his eternal counsels he has planned a definite purpose for each of our lives. In the glowing days of youth our choices ought to be made before a fatal fixed of character is formed. God expects us to be and do something. Shakespeare said "I take the world, but as the world a stage on which every man must play his part." What a heritage comes to the youth of our day, which came not to those of you who were older and all the bygone ages have a right to ask them what they are going to make of it.

Three Lessons

Every school-master should teach the scholar three fundamental lessons. The value of a sound body. The ancients were right in saying a sound mind in a sound body is the greatest gift of the gods. The body is a noble specimen of divine workmanship and he who sins against the simple economy of health has taken the crown from the brow of manhood and has defiled the laws of the Almighty. Gymnasiums, stadiums, games are all contributing, but beware, young people of destroying habits, of nights of revelry that you come not to maturity with a muddy eye and trembling hand, lest dark and dismal failure await you. Be clean, be chaste, be strong.

Every school-master should teach the value of a trained mind. Ignorance now is not simply a misfortune, it is a crime. Only hard and earnest study will produce a strong mind. Follow your visions of excellence.

Madison followed and was in congress at 28. Calhoun at 29, and Webster at 31. Jackson was distinguished as a general at 19 and a senator at 30 years of age. Luther was a doctor of divinity at 19. Spurgeon while yet in his teens filled the earth with his fame and his Master's glory.

The third lesson is the necessity of a pure heart. The public school has the scholar thirty hours every week and should teach him enough of morality and religion to produce character and help to have our country from the present day crime wave among our youth. Early purity, makes easy purity and eminent purity.

A Chance For All

Some child of pessimism says 'There is no chance for the youth of our day." The very atmosphere of America is perpetual tonic and our untold resources are a constant spur to endeavor. The deaf, dumb and blind go to college and invalids and cripples succeed. Give our youth a strong body, a trained mind and a pure heart and there is no placing a limit on their career.

Youth is the time to achieve. Shelly was only 17 when he uttered so much of his soul in "Queen Mab." Robert Burns began his "Sin of Ryme" at 16. Victor Hugo wrote a tragedy of rare merit at 15. Dublin published a paper at 14. Elizabeth Barret Browning wrote prose and poetry at 10 and published a volume at 17.

In life's school there are many teachers, responsibility brings out the best gifts and exhibits our brightest endowments. Witness Livingstone, Garfield and Lincoln. But God's greatest teacher is Jesus, our Master and Model. Offer Him your love and life. He knows your possibilities and problems, for He bears the dew of eternal youth upon His brow.

New "Bemberg" Hose

Full Fashioned $1.00 pair

1000 Pairs in New Spring Shades

Because of the great demand for this remarkable new Hosiery and the limited output of this grade, we are, indeed, fortunate to be one of the first in this section to introduce this new stocking.

It is, of course, full-fashioned with the four-inch mercerized lisle welt and a lisle foot. Is of a very fine guage, will wash beautifully and wear longer than almost any other stocking selling for even more money.

It is next to impossible, even to the most critical observer, to detect any difference between "Bemberg" and the usual thread silk. It has no semblance whatever of rayon.

LOS ANGELES IS NOT GOING ON RESCUE SHIP

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The navy department has made no plans to send the dirigible Los Angeles to aid in the search for General Umberto Nobile's airship Italia which has been missing since its flight over the north pole, it was declared today.

Officers pointed out that the Los Angeles probably would be of little service as it could not be made ready on short notice for an extended trip over the frozen north. To do any real searching work, the Los Angeles would require supplies and a northern base from which to operate.

The indefiniteness of the Italia's location also would mitigate against a successful search, they added.

Navy radio stations ashore and afloat are closely watching for any communications concerning the Italia.
